Country On Right Track

President Warns Americans To Be Ready For Any Emergency

By Ernest B. Vaccaro

DETROIT, July 28—(AP)—President Truman today gravely warned the American people to get ready for "any emergency" as he laid down a bitter, detailed indicitment of Russia's build up for war "around the world."

He cited war-like moves in Bulgaria, Rumania, Hungary and the Russian provinces as well as in North Korea and even questioned whether the Communists "really desire peace" in that battle-ravaged area despite their negotiations.

Mr. Truman spoke to a holiday throng in Cadillac square after a flight from Washington to join in Detroit's 250th birthday celebration. Police Supt. Edward Morgan estimated the crowd at 60,000.

The President didn't mention General Douglas MacArthur, Republican Senators Taft (Ohio) and McCarthy (R-Wis) or other administration critics by name, but he accused opponents of "trying to stir up trouble and suspicion between the peole and their government."

"They are using the smear and the big lie for personal publicity and partisan advantage, heedless of the damage they do their country," he charged.

"Never, not even in the bitterest political campaigns have I seen such a flood of lies and slander as is now pouring forth over the country."

Referring to MacArthur's Boston charge that the administration has no policy, the President declared this country is on the right track in foreign affairs."

Reference to Arming

Mr. Truman said Russia's actions give no indication of "peaceful intentions" and declared her satellites "are rapidly being brought to a peak of military readiness."

"We know that Bulgaria, Rumania, and Hunrgy now have armed forces far greater than those allowed under the peace treaties they signed in 1947," he said in his bill of particulars.

"We know that Rumania recently ordered the inhabitants moved out of a stretch of land 30 miles wide, along the Yugoslav border. Bulgaria and Hungary have done the same thing. Military preparations have been going on in those zones along the border.

xxx

"In the Far East, the situation is much the same. The North Koreans and the Chinese Communists are getting a steady flow of new equipment from the Soviet Union for ground and air use.

"The Russians themselves have more than four million men under arms in Europe and the Far East. There are heavy concentrations of Soviet air, land and sea forces in the Russian provinces along the Manchurian border, across from Japan, and across from Alaska.

He said the Soviet rulers "are putting themselves in a position where they can commit new acts of aggression at any time.

"As your President, I am telling you that the dangers in other parts of the world are just as great as they are in Korea," he declared.

Points Out Danger

"Every day reports come to my desk about Soviet military preparations around the world. If everyone of you could see these reports and receive this same information, you would give up any thought that the danger is over," he warned.

Mr. Truman flew here from Washington, driving the 40 miles from the Willow Run airport to the cheers of scattered thousands along Michigan avenue.

The administration placed great store by the address, which was carried by radio and television throughout the nation and beamed all over the world by the State Department's "Voice of America."

"We cannot let our guard down, no matter what happens in Korea," Mr. Truman asserted.

"The free world must have armed strength—and have it now—not in reserve, not later, but now. We must have men, ships, planes, tanks and bombs—on hand—ready for any emergency."

He said "we do not know whether the Communists really desire peace in Korea or whether they are simply trying to gain by negotiations what they have not been able to gain by conquest."

The President departed from his prepared address to pay tribute to Blair Moody, ex-newspaper reporter, and now Democratic Senator from Washington who came here with him.

He said the administration is trying to solve a temporary unemployment problem here caused by curtailment of steel and other metals for automobile building and declared:

"One reason they are continuing to do their best because of your new Senator, Blair Moody. He's got everybody in Washington trying to get things for Detroit."

Lightning Kills OPS Newsman

WASHINGTON, July 28—(AP)—A lightning bolt tonight killed Wilmer R. Huff, 43, and seriously injured W. W. McClanahan, 36, both members of the Office of Price Stabilization press staff.

Police said the two men had just started to play golf on a minature course on Hains Point, not far from the Jefferson Memorial, when a sudden thunderstorm came up.

The two men ran to the shelter of a tree and were huddled beneath it when the lightning hit.

Huff was dead on arrival at Emergency Hospital. McClanahan is suffering from burns and shock.

Huff is survived by his mother, Mrs. Marianne Huff of Washington, and a brother, Theodore Huff of New York.

Prior to entering government service Huff had worked for the Associated Press in New York City and also the Wall Street Journal, both in New York and Washington.

McClanahan came to Washington in October 1950 from the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette where he was assistant to the publisher.

His newspaper background also included managing editorships at Toledo Times and the Nashville Tennessean.

Pride Lifts Kansas Town Back On Feet

By John Stewart Smith

The Manhattan Mercury-Chronicle
(Written for the Associated Press)

MANHATTAN, Kas., July 28—(AP)—When a modern city is inundated by flood waters the complicated system of family and economic life comes apart at the seams.

This is what happened to Manhattan in the big flood of 1951. But fortunately we had city leaders who could hold the community together by courage and character alone. And the people themselves rose to the occasion, determined not to take a beating from the river.

If you want to know what a flood is like, put six to seven feet of water in your entire downtown business section, and surround half of your residential area with water. Add a million tons of sand, silt, and gravel. Stir it well with a 30-mile-an-hour current. Knock out the lights in two-thirds of the city. Cut your telephone, and telegraph lines. Shut off the gas mains. Put roadblocks on all but one exit. Cut the pumps to your city water works. Plug up your sewers.

Then try and find living and feeding facilities for more than 5,000 displaced persons.

Slime Covered City

After this, pull the plug and let the water drain out. Let the mud, slime, sand, and gravel cover everything. This was Manhattan on July 16, a dirty, tired, exhausted city that faced the problem of cleaning up and trying to live a normal life.

For four days two-thirds of this community was under more than 5,000,000 tons of water as the Kansas river ripped and tore at the vitals of the city. It changed its course to run through the eastern half of the town. It rolled up asphalt streets like you would a rug. It ripped out concrete sidewalks as if they were corks. It smashed store windows and carried away everything it touched. Loaded railroad coal cars, heavy engines, and box cars were tossed about like toys. It gashed and dug up farm land like an angry, uncontrolled beast.

Damage to the city is estimated

Marshall Clarifies Estimate

WASHINGTON, July 28—(AP)—Secretary of Defense Marshall said today that when he estimated there will be 400,000 U. S. troops in Europe next year, he meant supply and supporting troops as well as combat units.

Marshall used the 400,000 figure in testimony yesterday to the Senate appropriations committee. Questions arose, since the figure was about twice as high as previous estimates, some of them from Marshall himself. These previous estimates also included supporting troops.

60,000 Airmen Listed

He wrote chairman Richards (D-SC) of the House foreign affairs committee today, noting that his statement had been questioned and saying that the 400,000 is correct—360,000 ground forces and 60,000 airmen. A similar letter was sent by Marshall to Senator Connally (D-Tex) chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee.

The Senate has approved the use of six U. S. divisions in the defense of Western Europe. The understanding at the time was that additional separate units, such as anti-aircraft groups, also would be sent.

Last February 15, when the troops-to-Europe issue was at its hottest, Marshall testified before Senate committees that the plan was to send about 100,000 Army troops in addition to those already there. At that time the official indication was that there were then about 97,000 men in Europe.

Things Have Changed

The 100,000, he told the Senators, would include 72,000 men in four divisions at full strength plus "about 20,000 or 25,000" supporting troops. In addition to the total of 197,000 ground force troops then mentioned, there would be air and naval units which were unofficially estimated as likely to swell the over-all total of U. S. military personnel in Europe to 250,000.

Marshall's February 15 testimony took much of the steam out of the opposition in the troops-to-Europe controversy since the size of the forces he listed then was smaller than had been anticipated.

Marshall, writing today about the 400,000 estimate, told Richards that the planned ratio of support troops was less than that used in the last war.

Sen. Taft Evades The Big Question

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 28—(AP)—Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said tonight he doesn't know if he'll run for the Republican presidential nomination next year but added: "I don't rule it out."

The veteran Ohio Senator—mentioned repeatedly by political observers as a prime GOP candidate—told a news conference:

"I have not decided to run yet.

"I am not a candidate now and I don't know if I'll become one. But I don't rule it out.

"I have always said I would run if the majority of the Republicans want it."

Asked by a reporter when he plans to decide Taft answer that January primaries in some state in 1952 "may tell the story."

No Concession Will Be Permitted

Allied Delegates To Remain Firm On Buffer Zone Issue

WASHINGTON, July 28—(AP)—General Matthew B. Ridgway's truce instructions will permit him to make minor adjustments but no concessions in the U. N. demand that an armistice buffer zone in Korea follow the present battle line.

Informed officials said today the United States intends to stand absolutely firm on this issue, which has produced a head-on clash with the Communist negotiators at Kaesong, and on the question of an adequate system for inspection of all troops in Korea after an armistice is established.

No Early Break Seen

Ridgway's instructions were described as covering a wide range of possible moves and counter moves for use as negotiations developed. But in the State department there was strong belief today that long, hard sessions around the conference table will now have to precede any really significant break in the situation.

Assistant Secretary of State Dean Rusk, reportedly holds this view.

Rusk has been Secretary of State Acheson's chief adviser for the Kaesong meetings.

Although the original Russian suggestion and the attitude of the United States and its U. N. allies is that the present talks are concerned with strictly military and non-political matters, there is considerable suspicion here that the Communists will make political gains where they can. This is one of the considerations behind the U. S. attitude toward a buffer zone.

Reds Insist On 38th

The Communists' position, restated at Kaesong last night (Washington time), is that the zone must be set up along the line of the 38th parallel which divided North and South Korea before the war.

By this maneuver the Reds are trying to regain the political status quo, something they were unable to achieve by military means. American officials do not rule out the possibility that in the political talks which follow the military talks (assuming an armistice is agreed upon) the 38th parallel might once again have to be made a boundary line, although there is no great enthusiasm for that here.

But at present, the U. S., as the nation exercising the U. N. command through Gen. Ridgway, has based its policies on these considerations, which were described as not being subject to compromise:

1. It is essential to set up, for the period of the armistice, defensible military positions. Only thus can the security of the troops and the area be reasonably assured.

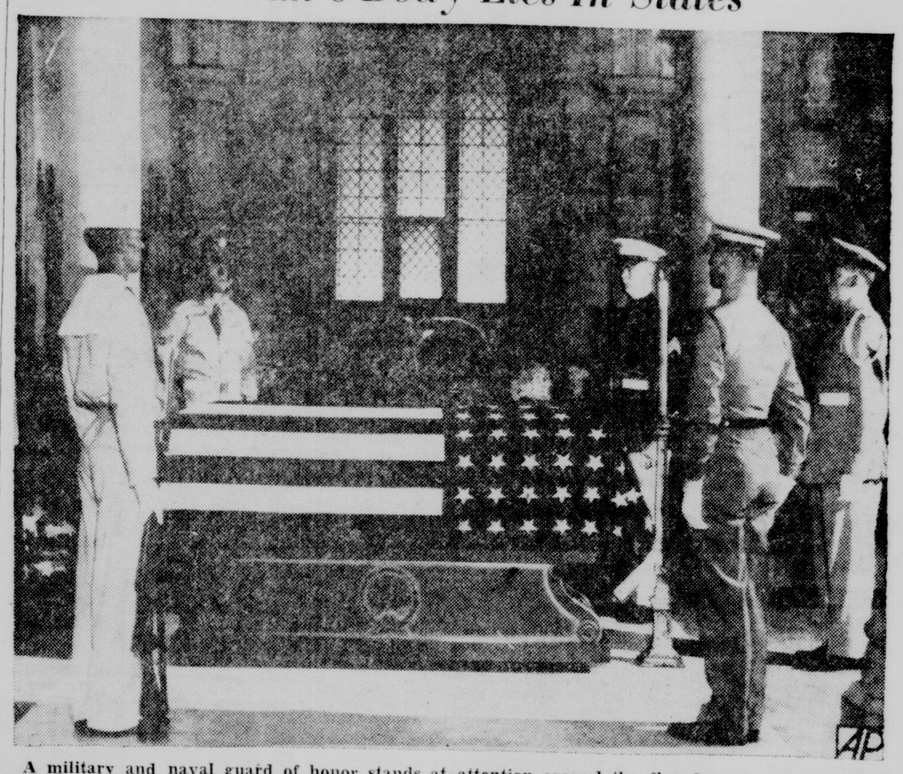

Parallel Area Exposed

2. The nature of the land along the 38th parallel does not make it possible to establish defensible positions. U. N. troops would have to pull back to the old Han river line and this would expose the Korean republic capital of Seoul to assault.

3. The present battle line not only offers defensible positions mainly north of the 38th parallel, but also is shorter by many miles than the parallel, which it crosses in the area north of Seoul.

4. Since the present talks are limited to military subjects, the proper objective of both sides must be to stop the fighting where it is and then negotaite boundaries for political divisions as may be necessary later on.

Will Address B. P. W., Club

Judge Dimmitt Hoffman To Speak On Legislature

The guest speaker of the Sedalia Business and Professional Women's club, which will meet Thursday at 6:30 p.m. in the Ambassador room of the Bothwell hotel, will be Circuit Judge Dimmitt Hoffman, 1000 South Vermont.

Judge Hoffman, who has served as judge of the 13th circuit since 1922, will speak on, "The Work of the Legislature."

Judge Hoffman, who will celebrate 30 years of judgeship for this district next year, received his LL.B Degree from the University of Missouri in 1909. He took his bar examination in January of 1909 and had previously taught commercial law in the Sedalia Business college. In 1922 he was elected to his first term as Circuit Judge and has been re-elected in 1928, 1934, 1940 and 1946.

Judge Hoffman was elected a member of the executive council of the Missouri Judicial conference for the Kansas City court of appeals district in 1944 for a two year term and was re-elected for a three year term in 1946. He recently has been serving on a special commission appointed by the state supreme court for hearing evidence in a case involving several counties and will make a report to the court after all evidence has been heard.

The meeting is in charge of the legislative committee which includes: Miss Erma Fajen, chairman, Mrs. Robert Anderson, Mrs. Elza Berry, Mrs. Atwell Bohling, Miss Phyliss Bush, Mrs. James Durley, Miss Lois Fricke, Mrs. W. J. Menefee, Mrs. Jacquetta Prowell and Mrs. Ruth Riley.

Also included on the program will be piano duets by Elinor and Elmer Van Dyke.

YOU ARE YOUR BROTHER'S KEEPER . . .

and he needs your help. You can help relieve the misery and suffering of the 45,000 homeless victims of the Missouri-Kansas floods through your contribution to the American Red Cross.

$5,000,000.00 is needed now for this gigantic rehabilitation task, and every Pettis Countian should accept his share of this emergency responsibility.

Bring or mail your disaster fund contribution today to Pettis County Red Cross Headquarters, 112 West 4th Street, Sedalia, Mo.

48 Missourians Come Home From Korea War

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28—(AP)—The army said today the transport Sgt. Howard E. Woodford, from Sasebo, Japan, would dock here Monday, July 30, with 1,411 army rotation combat veterans aboard.

Included among 48 Missourians are:

Sgt. Finis E. Pullmill, Jr., 414 North Hurley, Sedalia.

Cpl. Raymond C. Crawford, Lincoln.

Pfc. Richard L. Tumlinson, Concordia.

Pfc. Ralph E. Jones, Clinton.

Loving Cups Are Offered By Grocers

Trophies at State Fair In Ratings On Health

On August 22, the Sedaila Independent Retail Grocery association will present gold loving cups to five Missouri children at the Missouri State Fair.

The presentation of these trophies will be made to those children who have the highest ratings in the annual Health - examination event conducted by the State Division of Health. Children from the ages of one year to 14 years are eligible for entrance, and will be examined by appointment during the week preceding the trophy presentation.

The loving cups are given to the champion baby boy; the champion baby girl (12 months to 48 months); to the champion 9-point boy; to the champion 9-point girl (4 years to 14 years); and to the champion Negro child. Deadline for entry is August 9.

Interest in Health

The Independent Retail Grocery association of Sedalia presented loving cups for the first time to the champion winners at the 1950 Missouri State Fair, thus indicating their interest in the health and well-being of the future citizens of Missouri, and their support and promotion of healthier children in Missouri. This association believes the heritage of every child is the good health and the right to be recognized as a "champion." The presentation ceremony will take place at the grandstand on Wednesday morning of the week of the 1951 Missouri State Fair. The champion winners will also receive plaques from the State Division of Health which will be presented to them by Governor Forrest Smith and otherstate officials.

Dr. Buford G. Hamilton, director of the State Division of Health, has expressed his appreciation to the Sedalia Independent Retail Grocery association for their interest and contributions to the improvement and advancement of good health and health services in Missouri.

Civilians To Give Air Corps Basic

SAN ANTONIO, July 28—(AP)—The Air Force is turning over to civilians the job of giving basic training to its cadets.

Five civilians contract schools already are in operation. Four more will begin operation soon.

This is in contrast to the stictly military job done, until last Monday, at big Randolph Air Force base here.

More than 20,000 basis trainees were graduated from Randolph. It became known as the "West Point of the Air." But last Monday it quit training cadets and became another advanced training base, turning out combat crews for B-29s.

The give civilian contract schools in operation are at Bartow Air Force Base, Fla.; Columbus Air Force Base, Miss.; Greenville Air Force Base, Miss; Hondo Air Force Base, Tex.; and Spence Air Force Base, Moultrie, Ga.

Senate Moves To Decrease 'Chair Corps'

WASHINGTON, July 28—(AP)—A new move to reduce the armed services "chair corps" and thus increase the number of fighting men was announced today by a Senate preparedness subcommittee.

Chairman Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex) and his "watchdog defense group" is sending investigators to 20 "advanced training centers" of the Army, Air Force, Navy and Marines to check on use of personnel assigned to duty as instructors, clerks, automobile drivers, telephone operators, or similar jobs.

Thousands Assigned To Jobs

Earlier this year on-the-spot visits to 16 basic training centers by the preparedness subcommittee disclosed thousands of uniformed men, qualified for combat, assigned to these jobs.

"Our report disclosed that three to five combat divisions could be formed from the administrative and housekeeping personnel we found at those bases," Johnson said in a statement today.

Since then, Johnson said, the Army has revised its policies and expects "to obtain two or three more divisions than were originally planned.

"These divisions will be formed simply by cutting down on 'chair corps' troops. They will not require an increase in overall manpower goals."

Women Recommended For Duty

The Senators had recommended that chair corps jobs be given to women or to men not qualified for combat.

Johnson said the new check will be made by committee investigators operating in teams of two and will cover all services. He said the investigators also "will look into the policies that affect the welfare of the men and the efficiency of their training."

He declined to identify the training bases that will be visited, starting next month, to avoid tipping off the responsible commanders.

Child Killed Crossing Street In KC; 22nd Death of Year

KANSAS CITY, July 28—(AP)—A 3-year-old boy, running across the street to join a playmate, was killed by a motor car here late today.

The victim was Craig Allen Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Smith. It was Kansas City's 22nd traffic fatality this year.

Long Debate Fails To End Deadlock Over Buffer Zone

U. N. ADVANCE HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Sunday, July 29—(AP)—Allied and Communist armistice delegates debated for nearly two hours today the touchy problem of a cease-fire buffer zone across Korea.

The meeting—13th since the talks began—recessed until 11 p.m. CST Saturday after one hour and 50 minutes.

It was the longest unbroken session thus far in the negotiations.

There was no indication of any progress on the hard bargaining for a buffer zone.

The allies want it to run along the present battle-line, entirely in North Korea except in the west. The Reds want the buffer strip along the 38th parallel which divides North and South Korea.

Informed sources in Washington said the allied team has been ordered to stand on its demand.

The talks began at 7 p.m. CST Saturday.

When yesterday's meeting ended, the Red and allied negotiators were far apart on the buffer zone. There were overtones, too, of other differences.

Red Propaganda Familiar

A Communist interpreter was overheard referring at the conference to allied "air and naval power" and to the "bombing of peaceful Korean villages"—a long familiar Red propaganda twist for air strikes.

This tended to underscore reports the Reds want all the shooting to stop right now, even while the talking goes on.

While ground fighting has been desultory ever since the talks were first proposed, allied planes and warships have continued daily attacks on the North Korean military build-up areas.

The U. S. State Department and allied officals have emphasized that all terms of an armistice must be settled before cessation of hostilities.

Four Points On Agenda

There are four major points on the agenda and the two sides already are deadlocked over the first—the place and size of a demilitarized zone.

U. N. and Red delegates debated the problem for two and a half hours Saturday and got nowhere.

The Reds want the buffer zone to be centered on the 38th parallel. That would require pullbacks of allied troops ranging from 35 miles in eastern Korea to 20 miles in the center.

The allies want a buffer zone based on the present battle line—well north of 38 except in the west.

Reasons For Stand

There are two reasons behind the allied stand:

1. The present positions, based on ridges, are more defensible militarily than the 38th parallel.

2. The parallel is where the Red invasion began June 25, 1950. It is viewed in many quarters as a symbol of U. N. defeat and a settlement along that line is bitterly opposed by the South Korean government.

Up to 12,000 residents of Seoul paraded Saturday, protesting the trend of the Kaesong talks.

The marchers, who stretched for 10 blocks, carried banners proclaiming "No Peace on the 38th Parallel."

For more than an hour they marched along the main streets of the ancient capital. Their banners, mostly in Korean but some in English, displayed such slogans as:

"Down with the 38th parallel. We reject armistice without unification. Don't forget the union of our country. Advance up to the real border."

But the Reds at Kaesong were insisting on a buffer zone at the 38th parallel, the old political boundary for North and South Korea during the Russian and American occupations.

No Sign Of Agreement

Each side stood so firm that after the Saturday session that an allied source said there was no sign of any "area of agreement."

Equally, there was no indication the U. N. delegation had flatly rejected the Red proposal or closed the door to a compromise.

Even the perfunctory allied communique referred to an "atmosphere of cool military formality." It said that when the session ended "the position of both delegations on the agenda item under discussion had not changed."

Senate Keeps A Close Eye On RFC Probe

WASHINGTON, July 28—(AP)—Senate investigators have been "alerted" and are keeping a close check on the unfolding story of an alleged "influence" loan to a St. Louis printing firm, Senator McClellan (D-Ark.) said today.

And in St. Louis, the Post-Dispatch came up with still another name in its investigation of the $565,000 RFC loan which the paper charges was "influenced."

The new name: Max Siskind of Washington, former law partner of chairman William H. Boyle, Jr., of the Democratic National committee. Siskind was not immediately available for comment.

Young In On It

The names of Boyle and E. Merl Young, central figure in the recent Senate probe of alleged favoritism and influence on Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans, already have been brought into the new inquiry along with that of James P. Finnegan.

Finnegan's actions as collector of internal revenue in St. Louis are under scrutiny by a grand jury there. He resigned his post last April.

McClellan, chairman of the Senate expenditures committee, told a reporter today that "some Senators have asked us to investigate" the loan—to the American Lithofold Corp. of St. Louis—"and the committee staff is alerted . . ."

The Senator added, however, that "I believe we must see what the grand jury in St. Louis does."

Something For Nothing

Siskind and Boyle, the Post-Dispatch reported, have received $14,500 form the Lithofold firm for doing "practically nothing." The paper said this was learned from the firm's president, R. J. Blauner.

The paper says the company was granted the first of its RFC loans exactly two weeks after Boyle went on its payroll Feb. 17, 1949. Three previous applications for loans had been turned down.

A Post-Dispatch reporter sent to Blauner's office at Blauner's invitation said he saw six checks made out to Boyle for a total of $1,500. Previously the paper had reported Boyle was paid $8,000 by Lithofold.

Boyle has denied he had anything to do with the loan negotiations. He said he did some legal work for the St. Louis firm before he became Democratic National chairman.

Boyle Out—Siskind In

"Immediately after Boyle went off the payroll, his law partner, Max Siskind, went on," the Post-Dispatch said. "Siskind's checks started May 150 1949, and are still being sent. Through June 30, 1951, he had received 52 checks, $250 each, for a total of $13,000."

Blauner was quoted as saying he hired Siskind without having met him, because Boyle's work had been satisfactory and it was "logical" to retain someone who had been with Boyle's firm.

Federal Agents Grab Ten In Narcotics Raid

NEW YORK, July 28—(AP)—Lightning-like raids by 50 federal agents resulted in ten persons being held in $495,000 bail today, charged with membership in an international narcotics smuggling and counterfeiting ring.

Federal authorities said it was the first time they had found counterfeiting linked with illicit traffic in naroctics.

They also said the Italian end of the alleged 20-member international ring was headed by Charles "Lucky" Luciano, deported vice overloard. Agents suspected, too, that there was a link between the ring and the Mafia, Italian black-hand society.

Government officals conceded they could only estimate the tremendous profit garnered by the ring. They charged the underworld market value—ten times that of the legitimate wholesale price—of heroin smuggled into the country by the ring in three years was $30,000,000.

Young Mothers Anxious To Contribute To Blood Bank

We never realize the importance of things until they come home to us but when something comes very close to our hearts that is a different story.

The urgent call for donors for the blood bank may be ignored by dozens and dozens of people who know there is a war going on in Korea, who know that blood is needed, but who just don't have anybody there.

Two young mothers in Sedalia whose husbands are on the fighting line in Korea have a very different feeling, and if their husbands need blood they want blood plasma to be there for them.

Both have called the Red Cross to let them know they will give their share of blood.

One of the young women is Mrs. Donald J. Wickerh, 903 West Seventh, whose husband has been with the First Cavalry since May 1. Major Wickern was in Okinawa before that but wars are not new to him. He has been in service 13 years and served during World War II.

One Former WAC

Maybe the picture is a bit clearer to Mrs. Wickern, too, because she knows what wars are like and what blood means to the wounded. She was a WAC for three years during World War II. It was while they were both with the occupation corps that they met in Germany and were married in 1946 in Olathe, Kas. They have a son, six months old. Mrs. Wickern is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John McNeish.

The other young woman is Mrs. Howard Durham, 717 West Seventh, who is from Pennsylvania but who married a Sedalia boy and is living here with her young son, Johnny, until his daddy comes home again. The husband for whom she is anxious to give blood in case he needs it has been overseas 21 months and for the past five months has been in Korea.

They are in hopes that many other Sedalians will put themselves in their places and think what they would do if someone they loved was fighting over there, then they know that there will be no doubt that when the blood mobile comes to Sedalia on August 6 and 7 there will be plenty of other blood donors there with them.

Dr. C. D. Osborne has been appointed by the Pettis County Medical Society to act as an advisory at the blood bank.

11 U. S. Planes Explore the Supersonic Airways; Newest Folds Wings in Flight

CONVAIR XF-92A: The first delta-wing plane ever built.

NORTHROP X-4: One of the smallest planes built for the USAF

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA— America now has 11 experimental airplanes designed to explore still-unsolved mysteries involved in flying faster than the speed of sound.

The latest to be announced, the X-5, built by Bell Aircraft Corp., of Buffalo, N. Y., is probably the most unusual of them all. Its most startlful feature is a wing which can fold back in flight to change the sweep-back angle.

BELL X-5: The folding wings are more important than speed.

According to flight plans for the tiny plane, it will test the feasibility of taking off and climbing with the wing straight, and then sweeping it back for penetration of the sonic barrier into speeds faster than sound (760-miles-per-hour at sea level).

SKYROCKET: The highest speed and altitude ever recorded.

Much of what has been learned during three intensive years of experiments with supersonic speeds has gone into the design of the X-5. Powered with a turbo-jet engine, it is 33 feet four inches long, has a wing span of 31 feet nine inches, is 12 feet high and weighs approximately 10,000 pounds.

Although the X-5 has not yet been flown, it is planned to test it by taking it off under its own power. The X-1, first supersonic experimental plane, and first aircraft to cross the sonic barrier and survive, was lifted into the air in the belly of a B-29 and then dropped for a free flight at a very high altitude. Its rocket motor could only supply power for about three minutes. The Z-5 will have power for considerably longer than that.

Just how fast the X-5 is expected to fly is a secret. Air Force spokesmen say that testing the variable-sweep wing is more important to them than setting speed records, although it will have to fly faster than 760-miles per hour to prove its worth. The X-1 flew "many hundreds of miles faster than the speed of sound," according to the only official announcement made by the Air Force.

The X-1 itself is no longer probing the sonic barrier. But succeeding "X" types have been designed to similar in outward appearances to the X-1 that it's difficult to tell them apart.

A Bell X-1 No. 3 is in the hands of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics for testing, and a Bell X-1A is to be flown by the Air Force. They have improved motors compared to the original X-1. So do an X-1B and an X-1D, which will be flown to check specific problems of sonic flight, such as heat and stability.

The Convair XF-92A, first delta-wing plane ever built, will also soon join the supersonic fleet. A delta-wing is shaped like a triangle.

Mystery surrounds the Bell X-2 plane. It has a stainless steel, highly polished fuselage resumbling the X-1, but there doesn't seem to be a rocket motor yet developed to fly it.

Said to be the fastest of all the test planes is the Douglas X-3, with a planned speed in the neighborhood of 2000 miles per hour. It hasn't flown yet.

Douglas has two other supersonic test planes, the D-558-1 and the D-558-2 (Skyrocket), which are being flown by the navy. After a test run last month in which, like the X-1, the D-558-2 was dropped from a B-29, the navy announced the Skyrocket "attained the highest speed and altitude ever recorded by a piloted plane."

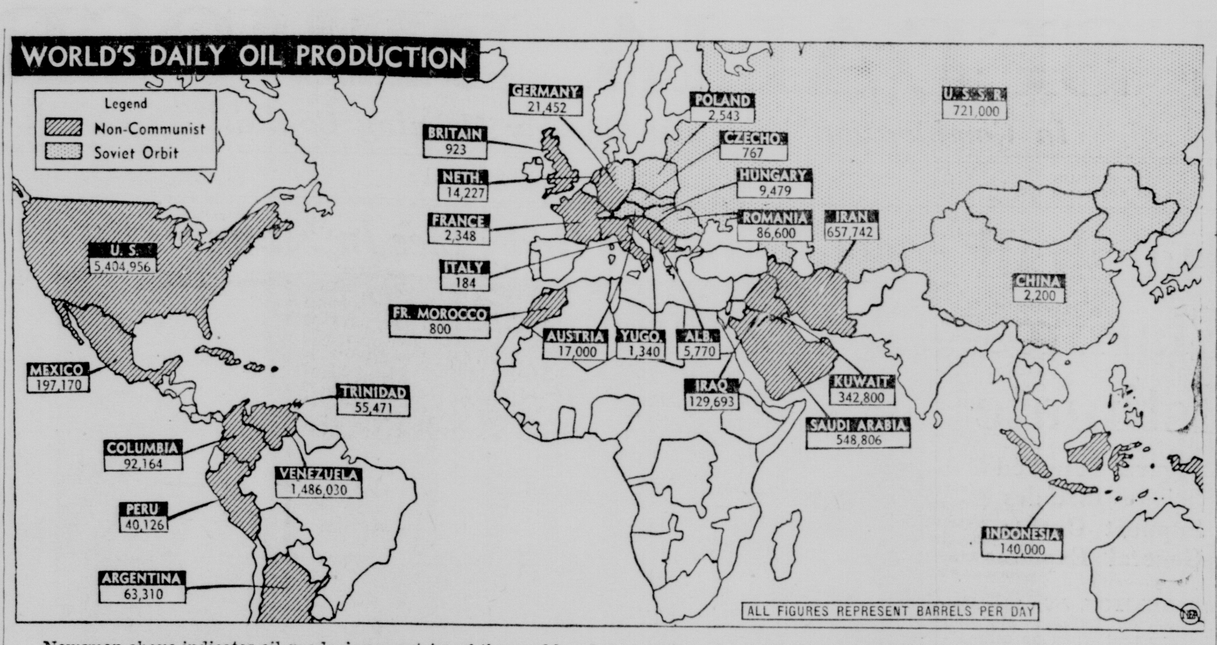

The X-4, designed by Northrop, has been probing the sonic barrier for quite some time. One of the smallest planes ever built for the Air Force, its wing spread is only 25 feet.

In addition to these experimental planes, called flying laboratories, the services have several operational planes which can be classified as capable of supersonic flight. They include the Navy's Cutlass, some later versions of the F-86 Sabre, and Northrop's all-weather interceptor, the F-89.

Newsmap above indicates oil-producing countries of the world and the number of barrels they turn out individually. The world output during 1950 was 10,359,104 barrels daily, with the U. S. the leader with 5,404,956. Iran's output, 657,742 barrels daily, is third among the producers. All figures are from U. S. Department of Mines data for 1950. With 9,178,090 barrels daily, the non-Communist nations (striped area) production of oil is approximately nine times greater than Soviet-dominated countries (dotted area).

Many Uses For Castor Oil

Mrs. James Chaney of near Windsor was hostess at the July meeting of the Bethel Happy Hour club which met at her home Thursday afternoon.

The afternoon's program was opened with a prayer and roll call was answered with "My Pet Peeve."

Mrs. Chaney read an article on "The many uses and articles made of castor oil." Mrs. Don Hedrick, who spoke on the subject, "Is Your Home a Democratic Place in which to Live?" also presented the lesson subject and demonstration on "Scrap Leather Purses." Mrs. Hedricks was assisted by Mrs. Nora Rank.

Mrs. Chaney gave a report on the county council meeting which was held at the courthouse in Warsaw. Plans for the Women's achievement day were discussed and it was decided that Achievement day this year will be held at the Community building in Warsaw, October 28th or 29th and will open with a dinner at 12:00 o'clock noon followed with a program featuring guest speakers and short skits by the various clubs. There will also be booths demonstrating the different phases of the club's yearly work.

The Bethel club was among those clubs selected at the meeting to present a skit.

Following the meeting a social hour was held and refreshments of ice cream and cake and iced lemonade was served by the hostess, who was assisted by Miss Lizzie Davis.

A Full Day on a Full Tank!

Standard equipment, accessories and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice.
You roll out into the golden sunshine of a dew-encrusted morning and head your Cadillac into another day of your vacation.
You glance at the gauge on the instrument panel—and it points to a full tank of gasoline. And you just can't help wondering whether it will happen again today . . .
The miles go by and the miles go by. The little towns check off on your map and a state capital looms in the distance. And, an hour or so later, somebody says it's time for lunch.
You glance at the fuel gauge and it has scarcely moved. No sign of hunger there!
Again, it's the road and the beautiful countryside and the interesting towns and villages. You drive and drive—until the shadows begin to lengthen—and somebody spots a lovely place to spend the night.
Okay! We'll fill 'er up before we turn in—and be all set for a full day tomorrow!
Yes—it's difficult to believe. But it happens to you over and over again—and finally you come to accept it as a wonderful money-saving truth:
Your great and beautiful Cadillac is a veritable miser when it comes to gasoline.
And there, if ever you had it, is "frosting on the cake"!
Better come in and place your order for the wonderful car that brings you economy—as well as unrivaled prestige.

Sociological Experiment becomes Water Logged

The raft "Lethargia" (above) with two bachelors and two women aboard, conducting what was described as a sociological experiment, turned over near Bellaire, Ohio, on the Ohio river July 26. Shown on the raft are two of the party, Mary Ellen McGrady, 24, in charge of the party and Milton Borden, 30, of New Bedford, Mass. The party set out from New Kensington, Pa., and was headed for New Orleans via the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. Others in the party were Geraldine Garcia, 23, of Boston, Mass., and Don Brown, 24, of Detroit. The party lost most of their possessions and their dog mascot was drowned. They planned to continue the trip. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Ivory Johnson (left), also known as Seldom Seen, who police say is a gambler, was questioned in Kansas City, Mo., July 26, in the slaying of Matt Jones (center), 48, whose weighted body was found July 25 in the Missouri river near Waverly, Mo. Jones had disappeared three days earlier just before he was to appear as a witness in a contempt of court action against Alfred H. Osborne (right), Kansas City attorney. (AP WIREPHOTO)

Revival At The Flat Creek Church

The Flat Creek Baptist church, nine miles southeast of Sedalia is now holding its summer revival meeting.

Rev. C. L. Conner of Ulrich, Mo., is back again for this year. Good attendance is reported and is expected to exceed last year's high attendance when it was necessary to bring in chairs to accommodate the crowds.

The church is now using its new basement and Sunday school rooms. The building has been redecorated inside and out and the church grounds have been improved.

The meeting will last through next Sunday.

Pride Lifts Kansas Town Back On Feet

at nearly $3,000,000. In the city and county more than 179 homes, 23 business, and 103 farm buildings were swept away or damaged beyond repair. There was minor damage to 883 homes, and 133 businesses. Of all the homes damaged at least 75 per cent lost their furniture, and most of the business places damaged lost nearly all their stocks and fixtures.

Statistics Don't Tell Story

These are the statistics, but they can never tell the story. The very mechanics of living—eating, sleeping, and keeping clothed—took all of a person's time. The very problem of keeping alive in a devastated city is exhausting.

Despite everything, the people of Manhattan are coming back. Our backs are aching from shoveling tons of debris and muck, our legs are rubbery from working 16, 18, and 20 hours a day. But we aren't going to take a licking.

There are holes in our streets and alleys and railroads that took more than 60 loaded railroad cars of gravel and tons of debris to fill. There are sections of the south part of town that may never be reopened because of the sand bars and holes. There are farms in the Kansas river valley that may never be farmed again in our lifetime. But we're coming back. You won't know us by Sept. 1.

Impossible Accomplished

We have done the impossible. We lighted our city with the Kansas State College Power plant and available lines of the Kansas Power and Light company. We pumped flood waters through our filtering plant with fire trucks and had pure drinking water all the time. The Red Cross using the facilities of the college, fed, clothed and housed more than 2,000 persons. The Southwestern Bell Telephone company together with amateur radio operators, radio station KMAN, the police and highway patrol kept us in communication with the outside world.

The 110th medium maintenance company of the National Guard stationed here with the local police and volunteers risked their lives to evacuate persons from flood surrounded homes and business places.

We have done the impossible. The improbable job of cleaning up is a snap. The big problem of decontaminating the city was accomplished by the county health department and the KSC entomology department.

We lost only one person by drowning, and only 15 persons were injured; a remarkable record considering the nature and extent of the disaster.

People Refuse To Complain

Although the business district along Poyntz avenue is a gutted shell, the people are not complaining. Already the two banks, a cafe, a children's dress shop, and all the second floor business places are opened. Temporary business locations have been set up all over town. We are operating as usual, and all utilities are nearly normal.

Everywhere you hear: "We have been intending to clean out this junk for years and remodel, and now the river has done it for us. We're going to have a bigger, cleaner, and better town than ever before. We aren't going to take a beating."

It is this spirit of community pride and cooperation that will keep the town on the map. Even those who have lost all are coming back. They don't know exactly how they will do it, but they are coming back.

GOP Prepares A New Attack

WASHINGTON, July 28—(AP)—A new Republican move to clip the wings of Secretary of State Acheson—this time on foreign aid—is developing in the Senate.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told a reporter today he will call the Senate Republican policy committee together Monday to hear proposals for eliminating Acheson as policy head of the $8,500,000,000 foreign aid program.

"I don't think Congress is going to want this program run by the State Department," Taft said.

Taft has proposed a cut in the funds involved. He said Acheson's indication that $25,000,000,000 in foreign aid will be needed over three years "sounds too high."

As the program has been outlined to Congress, the State Department would have general supervision, so far as policy is concerned. Acheson has contended this is necessary to keep a close link between diplomatic and military moves.

UN Planes Rake Enemy Buildup; No Ground Gain

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Sunday, July 29—(AP)—Allied warplanes smashed Saturday night at a menacing build-up of Red forces in North Korea. Ground troops failed again to wrest strategic hill masses on the eastern front from the Communists.

Fifth Air Force headquarters reported that night-flying B-26 medium bombers pounded more than 800 Communist vehicles. Pilots said about 180 were destroyed or damaged.

Heavy road traffic was spotted on the east coast, between the big port of Wonsan and Kangdong. One allied bomber attacked some 200 vehicles in that area and reported hitting about 60.

The Fifth Air Force reported also that the B-26 medium bombers were fired upon by four unidentified aircraft, but that no damage was inflicted. Earlier, the Far East Air Force—with headquarters in Tokyo—reported allied daytime air strikes were unchallenged.

Fighting on the eastern front—northeast of Yanggu—was the only noteworthy ground action reported Saturday. The Red radio at Pyongyang boasted that the U. S. 38th regiment was badly mauled Friday.

Pyongyang radio said last night that "the greater part of the 38th regiment" of the U. S. Second division was cut down or captured while seeking to penetrate Red defenses. The claim was not substantiated by allied sources.

Meanwhile, a "new" division joined the allied cause. Units already at the front from Great Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and India were consolidated into the First Commonwealth division on the western front.

Oklahoma Hotels Put TV Sets In All Rooms

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 28—(AP)—Television sets will become standard room equipment in two hotels here and owner Dan James said today it'll be the first time in the nation every guest will have TV-equipped quarters.

Some hotels, James, who owns the Skirvin and Skirvin Tower hotels, said, do have sets in some rooms.

James hopes to have a receiver—most of the with a plush 16-inch screen—within three months in each of the 600 rooms which compromise the two hotels.

A Quail Takes Walk In City; Gets Freedom

Last fall a tired and disgruntled hunter lifted his empty game-bag after a long day in the field and made this report to an inquiring neighbor, "I might as well have hunted down on Ohio street."

Now this fellow was trying to hide his embarrassment (when you come home empty-handed as often as this person, it is embarrassing) with a weak attempt at humor, but he didn't know how close to the truth he was.

Saturday evening John Witcher, 2049 East Seventh, came into the Democrat-Capital newsroom with a grin on his face and a shoe-box under his arm; the contents of the box caused the smile.

"Say," he said, "Is it news when you catch a quail at Third and Ohio?" A wise-guy asked him if he meant a Bob-White. Mr. Witcher assured him he did by opening the top of the shoe-box.

Resting comfortably in its bottom was a two-thirds grown quail. Here's the story of the bird's capture.

Witcher was standing at the corner of Third and Ohio when much to his amazement he noticed the aforementioned bird strolling between the lines of traffic. The quail took temporary shelter under a parked car, and Witcher, with the help of anonymous young boy, took him into captivity.

Witcher has no idea of how the bird happened to be there, or what he was looking for, but figures he has a bird in the hand and will settle for that.

Witcher plans to release the bird on his farm northwest of Sedalia.

1950's Two Top Teams Of National Semi-Pro Will Defend Titles

WICHITA, Kas., July 28—(AP)—The Fort Wayne, Ind., Capeharts and Elk City, Okla., Elks will definitely defend their 1950 titles in non-professional baseball at the 17th annual national tournament starting Aug. 17, the National Baseball Congress announced today.

Ft. Wayne won the U.S. crown and later the inter-hemispheric title in Tokyo, Japan. The Oklahomans finished as runners-up to the title.

With three state champions already certified, 30 more are slated to be determined in the coming week. Most state champions are required to engage in a bi-state series with another champion to earn the right to a berth in the National Tournament's starting 32-team bracket.

Renew Search For Kidnap Car

KANSAS CITY, July 28—(AP)—Authorities have renewed their search for the motorcar in which Matt Jones was kidnaped last Sunday night and then driven to his death in the Missouri river.

In the first batch of mail delivered today to the Kansas City Crime Commission following its reward offer of $10,000 were several letters giving license numbers of motorcars answering the General description of the car used in the murder.

The Crime Commission and police department began checking up on each of the reported license numbers. And at police headquarters a crew of detectives was busy comparing the many signed statements and investigating reports gathered since Jones' murder.

Jones, 48 years old and once janitor at the courthouse, disappeared Sunday night and his body was found in the Missouri river Wednesday with a concrete block tied to his feet.

A coroner's inquest into the death will be held Thursday at 2 p. m. in the circuit court room at Lexington, Mo.

The panel of citizens from which a grand jury will be selected to probe the murder will meet Wednesday morning at 0 o'clock, Judge John F. Cook announced today.

Midget Auto Race Mark Is Being Threatened At Olympic Stadium

KANSAS CITY, July 28—Another midget auto racing record is being threatened by the 40-year-old Vito Calia, of Kansas City, at Olympic Stadium, where the racing veteran is seeking his fifth season crown in fifteen years of racing.

Calia, currently ranked first in the point standings roster of 56 race drivers from the Mid-Western area at Olympic Stadium, already has won four 25-lap feature events this season. Another will tie the mark set by the defending champion, Guy McHenry, of Wichita. McHenry is rated third in the point roster, a total of 13.6 points behind runnerup Bob Slater, of Kansas City. Calia leads Slater by 5.2 points.

Time trials for the nine-event midget auto racing card start at 6 p.m. each Sunday with races beginning at 7 o'clock.

Returns From C. Of C. Institute

Chester A. Brown, secretary-manager of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, returned home Friday from attending the Southwestern Chamber of Commerce Institute at Dallas, Tex., where he has attended during the summer the past three years. This year Mr. Brown received a certificate of graduation from the institute, which he attended for one week.

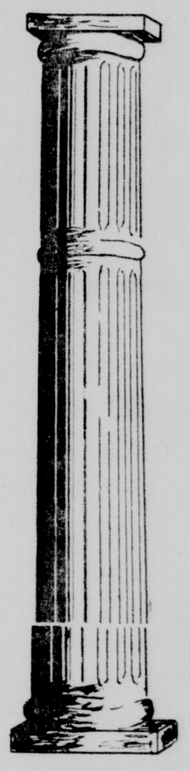

The following week Mr. Brown, his wife and children, Randy and Kathleen, visited relatives in Abilene and Salina, Kas. On the return trip they made several stops at places where the floods had caused heavy damage.

BATHTUB INTO KITCHEN—That modern-looking, tiled kitchen UN cooks in Kaesong are working in isn't a kitchen at all. It's a bathtub—Korean style. When UN cease-fire negotiating party took over the building, Army cooks transformed the one-time tub into a cozy kitchenette. In background, newsmen covering the truce talks are lined up for chow.

Pick-A-Back Ride

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—Not long ago one of those big trucks which haul shining new autos pulled up and stopped near a busy intersection in downtown Pittsubrgh.

Two men got out of the cab and eased a 1933 Ford from the truck. They shook hands. Then one got into his 18-year old car and drove away.

Someone asked the truck driver why he was hauling the ancient auto. He said the Ford owner had been a stranger to him until they met outside of Philadelphia, adding: "I didn't have anybody to talk to coming back to Pittsburgh I was kind of lonely. I offered him a lift and we rolled the Ford in. It helps pass the time when you got somebody along."

The American Federation of Labor was organized in Pittsburgh Nov. 15, 1881.

In the English vocabulary the American term "backyard" is usually called a "garden."

Your Wardrobe

By Frances Sagaloff at Sage's

IT IS SMART TO BE SUITED for fall. Whether you are a career girl or a busy housewife, you just can't go wrong by selecting a suit. From tweeds to sheen gabardine you will find new lines, new trim and a bit of smart tailoring at the waist or at the neck to give you a real lift. Men's wear flannel well tailored can be worn to the office and with the right costume jewelry added it can be worn right on to a dinner date. You will find rich, deep shades of purple or tangerine woven with black and grey into a sharkskin fabric that spells good taste and long wear. Some of the jackets are long and well fitted while others are short and very nipped in at the waist. Think ahead to the first crisp days and you'll decide that you must shop now for that perfect suit.

Mrs. Denzil D. Harris, formerly Miss Charline Morton, daughter of Mrs. Emma Morton of Joplin, who was married on July 1 at the home of the bridegroom in Joplin. Mr. Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Harris, is formerly of Sedalia.

Married In Cole Camp

Miss LaVerne Bohling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bohling, Cole Camp, became the bride of Harold Lloyd Bahrenburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bahrenburg, Cole Camp, at 2 p.m. April 8 at the Trinity Lutheran church in Cole Camp.

The Rev. H. J. Gerike read the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with white gladioli and snapdragons and palms.

Preceding the ceremony Misses Adelle Gerike and Juanita Bockelman sang "O, Perfect Love" and Mrs. Ray Tinker played the organ. Immediately after the ceremony "The Lord's Prayer" was sung, Mrs. Tinker played the traditional processional and recessional.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white bridal satin fashioned with a net yoke joined to Chantilly-type lace fitted bodice with a deep lace bertha. The long, full skirt ended in a train and deep godets of Chantilly-type lace gave fullness. The long, fitted sleeves ended in points at her wrist and her headdress was a satin bonnet with an illusion fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of white gladioli.

Miss Juanita Bahrenburg, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. She was dressed in maize taffeta fashioned with a draped bertha, fitted bodice and full skirt over crinoline. She wore a matching half-hat and carried Queen Elizabeth gladioli.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Leroy Kullman and Miss Irene Heisterberg, wore gowns identical to that of the maid-of-honor in shades of lavender, violet and deep purple. They also wore matching half-hats and carried bouquets of Picardy gladioli.

Sunonna Lou Bohling, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Her dress was white satin. Cordrey Franklin Morris, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Glen Herfurth was best man and Leroy Kullman and Leland Kerksiek were groomsmen. Ushers were Vordrey Morris, Leonard Bockelmann and Harvey Bohling.

After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents. Guests were members of the immediate families. A four-tiered wedding cake centered the lace-covered table with bouquets of white snapdragons and ferns and lighted white tapers in crystal holders on either side.

A reception was held at 7 p. m. and three hundred guests attended.

Following a brief trip to Arkansas the couple will live in Kansas City where they are both employed.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Bahrenburg are graduates of the Cole Camp high school. Mr. Bahrenburg was graduated in 1947 and Mrs. Bahrenburg in 1949.

Sedalia Youth Plans To Be A Writer .

For several years Charles Stevenson Wright, 17-year-old grandson of Mrs. Dora Hughes, 104 East Cooper, has tried his hand at writing, with more than a slight amount of success. Since Charles was a sophomore in high school various articles he has written have been published in such periodicals as the Kansas City Call, a leading weekly Negro newspaper in Kansas City.

Charles S. Wright

Now, with a year of literary work behind him, Charles has received an opportunity sought by many up-and-coming writers; he has been selected to study and work under the guidance of Mrs. Lowney Handy, critic and patroness of young, inexperienced writers.

Mrs. Handy has discovered such authors in her work as James Jones, who wrote the much discussed best seller, "From Here to Eternity."

Some friends of Mrs. Handy called her attention to some of Charles' works and she in turn contacted him. Charles will leave for Mrs. Handy's 400-acre farm at Marshall, Ill., sometime next week, where he will write and study with other promising writers and artists.

A story on the efforts of Mrs. Handy toward bringing out the best in her young writers and on the start of her work was printed in Life magazine on May 7, 1951.

Is Not Too Easy

The article, which was written by A. B. C. Whipple contained the following paragraph which outlines the rigorous routine that new members of her "group" must experience:

"When she thinks she has really found someone, the article states, she asks him to come and see her. If he looks as if he will fit into the group, he is given a trial. It is not an easy trial. For at least two months simply to test his strength of character, he gets what Lowney calls the treatment. He does the dirty work, he speaks only when spoken to, he gets generally knocked about, he is even forbidden to eat meat while others gorge themselves on it. Meanwhile he is permitted to write nothing of his own. Depending on the line Lowney thinks his talent is taking, she makes a selection of books and sets him to work on them. He does not just read them; he copies them, word for word, all the way through. He does this for at least one month, sometimes two. Then he starts writing and getting brutal criticism from the rest of the group."

However, the few who do remain with her group after this treatment are in capable hands of an instructor whose life and money has gone out to frustrated or unfortunate writers.

Attended Hubbard High

Charles attended Hubbard high school in 1950 and since that time he has been employed in Kansas City.

He explained that he wanted to write short stories, not the kind which appear in commercial magazines, but more like those in literary journals.

Charles, who is a very extensive reader said he was influenced mostly by the works of Turman Capote, Richard Wright, Thomas Wolfe and William Faulkner, who won the Nobel prize for his "Intruder in the Dust."

Charles, who appears a little shy, said that the people of Sedalia had proven to be an unceasing inspiration for many of his short stories.

He said, "I have observed them on the street, in the stores and theatres. Then I try to analyze them to the best of my ability."

Very often Charles would go on long walks, which he said proved to be a source of inspiration and served to clear his thinking. Now that he has received this offer from Mrs. Handy, he feels that he may explain the walks to the many people who wondered about his strolling over the city, some of whom even followed him in cars. This Charles said amused him very much.

However, these walks have paid him back with an opportunity sought by many and Charles is anxious to start for Illinois where he will have the chance to prove his ability as an author, under the guidance of Mrs. Handy and her group.

Participated In Methodist Meet

Among the 1,500 Methodist pastors and lay leaders who participated in the "National Methodist Town and Country Conference," Sioux City, Iowa July 21 to 24, were Mrs. Roy L. Bowers, of the First Methodist church of Sedalia, and the Rev. George Houghman, pastor of the Methodist church of Lincoln. The conference, called by the Council of Bishops and by the Board of Missions and Church Extension of the Methodist church, was planned to discuss the importance and place of the church in the rural and smaller communities of America, and to help the smaller churches better the service they render to men, women and children in their communities. Bishop Charles W. Brashears, of Des Moines, was general chairman and keynote speaker of the conference.

They participater in a unique feature of the conference when on Sunday the delegates visited some 196 churches in 39 counties of four states within a radius of 80 miles of Sioux City.

Chautauqua As Bringer Of Culture

(By the State Historical Society of Missouri at Columbia. Floyd C. Shoemaker, secretary...

Do you have a souvenir Chautauqua program tucked away among your keepsakes? Many Missourians cherish fond memories of the Chautauqua which visited smaller communities throughout the midwest during the summer months.

From the late 1890's through its Jubilee Year in 1924 the movement flourished, bringing stimulating lectures, music, drama, and intellectual "uplife" of all sorts to people who had formerly left isolated from cultural influences.

The Chautauqua Tent Was A Summer Cultural Center.

The Chautauqua was founded in 1874 at Lake Chautauqua, New York, and almost immediately spread across the nation. Maysville, in De Kalb county, claimed the first permanent assembly in Missouri, founded by Thomas J. Williamson in 1896. The first speaker there was General John Brown Gordon, a Civil War veteran who lectured on "The Last Days of the Confederacy."

Circuit Chautauquas, first organized in 1903, reached more people than the permanent assemblies and rapidly superseded them. These were the shows which most Missourians saw. The White and Meyers system of Kansas City covered a circuit of 225 towns, and Redpath-Vawter brought many programs to Missouri. Although popular in all sections of the state, the shows centered in north and northwest Missouri. St. Joseph was the largest city to hold Chautauqua programs.

With colorful billboards and flying banners, the circuit groups moved into the sponsoring communities for "Chautauqua weeks" of three to ten days, setting up tents in nearby woodland clearings or parks. It was considered progressive for a town to sponsor a Chautauqua, and it was a civic duty to support it, since hometown merchants signed ironclad contracts to meet any deficit.

Audiences behaved decorously, and cultured respectability was the keynote. Although people came to renew friendships and be entertained, they had a serious underlying purpose of seeking entertainment.

Many prominent speakers of the time came to Missouri. William Jennings Bryan, "The Greatest of Them All," gave his inspiring lectures of controversial public issues. In 1906 they heard Eugene V. Debs, the leading American socialist; Senator Robert M. LaFollette; and Carry A. Nation, the hatchet-wielding prohibitionist, who spoke on "How I Smashed and How You Can Smash."

Other summers Missourians heard Billy Sunday, "the baseball evangelist"; Judge Ben Lindsay, a founder of the juvenile court system; and singer Gladys Swarthout. Chautauqua had a lighter side in band concerts, choruses and magicians, and morning programs included cooking classes. There were special exercises for children, such ts the pageant called the "Seton Indians."

Chautauqua reached its peak in 1924 when an estimated 35,000,000 Americans flocked to the tents to hear and see and learn. It had risen in answer to a cultured need, but was fated to decline rapidly when radio, movies, and automobiles came into general use. The last Chautauquas were held in Missouri in 1932.

The movement which Teddy Roosevelt called "the most American thing in America" had served its purpose and passed into history.

Red Cross Corner

Philip McLaughlin, chairman of the Pettis County Chapter announces that, at this writing, $747.00 has been receoved at the Red Cross office for flood relief. We want to thank everyone who has so generously contributed and to remind everyone else that the need continues. The top of the trouble has just been scraped, and much more help will be needed by ARC to help the Missouri-Kansas flood refugees. So please do not forget to make your contribution, and soon. Mrs. Spencer, executive secretary, is in close contact with the Kansas City-Jackson County Chapter, and all our services are still aierted just in case we should be needed. The response for clothing has been splendid and at the moment no more is needed. If you cannot get down to the Red Cross office, just call 618, and a volunteer will collect your flood donation.

William Hurlbut, recruitment chairman for the blood program has been hard at work for his pre-August campaign to secure more donors. He has set up booths all over Sedalia and manned them as follows:

Liberty Theatre: Canteen members—Mrs. Harvey McFarland, Mrs. D. C. Davis, Mrs. Henry Neiman, Mrs. J. B. Poundstone, Mrs. William Rissler, Mrs. Tropha Bockleman, Mrs. Fred Curtis and Mrs. Lon Leslie.

Missouri Public Service Corp.: Staff Aides — Mrs. Henry Harris, Mrs. T. H. Yount.

Flowers: Motor Service—Mrs. J. C. McLaughlin, Mrs. Edwin Hausam, Miss Virginia Flower.

Rosenthals: Mrs. C. W. Mathieson, Mrs. E. F. Strickler, Mrs. Herbert Seifert, Mrs. Fred Hulse, Mrs. Chester Wright.

Court House: Staff Aides—Mrs. Georgia Holbrook.

Mrs. Fred Lange and Mrs. Arthur Studebaker represented the Chapter at the Cancer Clinic, Bothwell hospital, last Friday.

Henry Sutton, chairman of water safety, has been celebrating the local heat wave by installing a class of 7 beginners in swimming. These children are from Striped College, and the instruction took place at the Liberty Park pool.

According to Michael Wolfel, chairman of safety services, two of our First Aid instructors, Mrs. Mary Houston and Mrs. Betty Wilding recently conducted a 3-hour First Aid course at Montserrat Park to the 4-H groups from Pettis and Benton counties. This First Aid instruction, an absolute necessity in Civil Defense, is rapidly being spread all over this area through the constant efforts of the Chapter and Mr. Wolfel. We hope to have a record and have every boy and girl in both city and county fully briefed as to Red Cross First Aid.

Anti-Franco Revolt Brews In Spanish Army

Set For September; His U. S. Trump Card May Be Too Late

FRANCO DECORATES SOME HIGH BRASS: Behind his back, army leaders are brewing up revolt.

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

PARIS—(NEA)—An anti-Franco revolt is brewing in the Spanish Army, the force the late Admiral Forrest P. Sherman was trying to bring into the support of the North Atlantic powers on his last mission.

The stroke has been set for September. Halfway measures taken by Franco toward moderating his regime are not expected to halt it.

It is expected to coincide with a new wave of labor disturbances from one end of Spain to the other.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco knows about it: the U. S. Defense Department knows about it; the Spanish people know about it.

Certainly Admiral Sherman must have known it, because I am informed reliably that U. S. defense officials had details on the precarious military and political situation in Spain when they dispatched Sherman to Madrid for conferences with Franco.

"Only by playing the American card can Franco still save himself," a well-informed Western diplomat told me. "But even the conclusion of a two-power military pact between the United States and Spain may come too late to salvage his dictatorship."

It is possible that the U. S. Defense and State Departments sought to enroll Spain on the side of the Western Alliance before the anti-Franco movement plunges the country into a wave of strikes, demonstrations and confusion.

Both departments are convinced Spanish air and naval bases are vital for the defense of Western Europe.

This, too, is the opinion of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, expressed during a two-hour conversation recently with Jacob Potofsky, President of the Amalgmated Clothing Workers of America.

Eisenhower told the labor leader that without Spain's strategic bases covering the western entrance to the Mediterranean the North Atlantic Treaty Organization would face an uphill battle in stemming the tide of Soviet aggression.

He assured Potofsky that the U. S. would exert whatever pressure possible towards "democratization" of the Franco regime.

Diplomats here wondered how far Admiral Sherman went in applying that pressure. The full details of his conversations with Franco may be locked in his diary or some may even have gone with him when he died suddenly at Naples Sunday.

Spanish sources here believe the U. S. erred in offering Franco a pact without exacting far reaching concessions. His recent reshuffling of the cabinet and inclusion of nine pro-Franco Monarchists they dismissed as "a futile attempt to avert disaster."

These sources believe that further trouble in Spain will play into the hands of Stalin and pave the way for a Communist attempt at a coup d'etat. They say only drastic economic and political reforms, free and secret elections, the restoration of free trade unions and other genuinely democratic measures could bring stability to Spain and perhaps save the Franco regime.

But these reforms are believed unlikely and Spanish Republican leaders in France predict that a new wave of anti-Franco strikes will break out in September.

That is the moment the dissident army leaders will choose for revolt, according to the report. Franco is said to be aware of the activities of the army elements plotting against him but so deep is the discontent in army ranks and in the country generally that there is little he can do to relieve the pressure against his regime.

Chiefs Face Moberly In Crucial Contest

So far as the Sedalia Chiefs are concerned, the Central Missouri Ban Johnson league race will reach its climactic point at Liberty Park tonight when they cross bats with Moberly Miners, co-champions of the first half race.

The Chiefs are presently tied for first place in the BJ loop with a 3-1 record. Their lone loss came at the hands of this same Moberly team Wednesday night by a 9-8 score As usual, the locals fell-apart on the Moberly diamond, committing six miscues and as many mental errors, which was an exact reproduction of their performance in Moberly earlier in the season.

Defeat Moberly Here

The Chiefs defeated Moberly at Liberty Park in the first half battle by a 6-3 count. The Sedailans have scored their three loop wins over Boonville and Jefferson City twice in the second half.

Manager Joe Imhauser, remarkable righthander, will hurl for his club against the Miners. Last season Joe was real nemesis to the Miners, beating them three times. He has no decisions with them this year.

Lose Lumpee to Pros

Professional baseball ranks have again deprived the Chiefs of the services of one of their key players, further injuring their chances of taking the second half Southern division pennant.

Jerry Lumpee, all-star semi-pro and Ban Johnson shortstop, was signed by the New York Yankees after the Ban Johnson All-Star contest at Boonville Thursday. night. Although the Southern half dropped a 9-3 contest to the Northern division, Lumpee played an impressive game, obtaining two hits and playing perfect afield.

2nd Player to Sign

The Yanks made an attractive offer after the game and he signed the dotted line, making him the second outstanding player the Chiefs have lost this year. Bob Shawver, the other, accepted an offer of the St. Louis Cardinals in late May.

With Lumpee gone, Manager Joe Imhauser has another headache in finding someone to cover short. He took on the responsibility at Jefferson City Friday night and turned-in a top performance but tonight he will be hurling and the team will go with Bill "Bones" Morgan, who has been playing second and third thoughorut the season.

John Cochran "Beaned"

John Cochran will be Imhauser's battery mate. Cochran was "beaned" in the game at Jeff City, being slightly injured. However, he continued to play since he was the club's only receiver. Foster McGuire, Knob Noster, has been added to the Chief's roster, giving them catching insurance.

Bill Hawley has returned to Sedalia, boosting the pitching staff and infield. Hawley played with the Chiefs two years ago at third base, but will be stationed at second tonight.

Bodenhamer to Guard Camp

Adding to the woes of the locals will be a gap in the outfield, left by Jim Bodenhamer, who is at the National Guard training camp in Minnesota. Either Bill "Gabby" McCrary or Bob Brown will play center field in place of Bodenhamer.

Other starters for the Chiefs will be Don Broaddus, first base; Ralph Waters, third base; Bill Holst, left field, and either Larry Vilmer or Foster McGuire, right field.

John Thomas and Palmer Nichols will be the umpires for tonight's game.

Tom Jacobs Wins Jr. Golf Tourney From F. Addington

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., July 28—(AP)—Tommy Jacobs, 16-year-old high school junior from Montebello, Calif., won the U.S.G.A. junior golf title today with a 4 and 2 victory over Floyd Addington of Dallas, Tex.

Young Jacobs thus emerged as top man among a field of 128 junior golfers who battled it out for the championship on the 6,524-yard par 72 course at the University of Illinois in Champaign.

The tournament is open only to golfers under 18.

A sizling one-under-par 35 on the first nine just about wrapped up the win for Jacobs. It gave him a five up lead at the turn on the 18-hole champion round.

Young Jacobs, 16, whose father manages the Montebello golf course, was making his second bid for the junior crown. Last year he got to the third round before being eliminated.

Addington, who will be 18 next week, won't have another shot at the title.

Addington was the second Dallas victim of the day for Jacobs. In the morning's semi-finals, Jacobs was 4 under par for 12 holes in beating Jim Powell of Dallas, 7 and 6.

Addington took his semi-finals match with an unspectacular 2 and 1 victory over Bill Parker of Tulsa, Okla.

Reds Retain First At End Of 1st Round In Smithton League

The first round of play in the Smithton Community softball league was completed this past week with the Reds commanding a safe lead, being undefeated. They kept their record clean this past week by overwhelming the Dodgers.

The teams have been having trouble in getting the opening games underway due to the harvest season, but the nightcaps have been real thrillers.

The schedule for this week will be:

Tuesday—8:00 p.m.—Phillies vs. Dodgers. 9:30 p.m. — Braves vs. Cardinals.

Thursday—8:00 p.m. — Pirates vs. Reds. 9:30 p.m. — Cubs vs. Giants.

Post 16 Wins Zone Opener FromColumbia

Backing Billy Arnold's brilliant seven-hit hurling, the Post 16 American Junior Legion pounded-out 17 hits, good for nine runs and a 9-1 victory over the Columbia Alton Legions in the opening game of the Zone No. 1 Baseball Tournament at Hannibal Friday night.

Arnold made only one mistake in the entire game, that coming in the first inning when he was facing Columbia's leading hitter, Bob Musgrave. Musgrave, who hits from the left side, clouted one of Arnold's fastballs over the right-field fence for the Columbians lone tally.

Besides playing their top offensive contest of the year, the locals played perfect afield, comitting no errors.

Bob Bartlett led the Sedalians with four hits in six trips while Billy Dey, Richard Bennett, and Elroy Burton each obtained three hits; Bobby Lane, and Larry Mines, connected twice and Floyd Burton and Arnold hit once.

Post 16 opened their scoring in the top of the fourth on three hits and a walk, good for two runs. They added three more in the fifth on hits by Bartlett and Dey, a long fly by Larry Mines a walk to Thomas and Bennett, and a single by Elroy Burton, good for two of the tallys.

In the sixth, four hits and a walk accounted for three more counters, Larry Mines getting the big blow, a single driving in Bartlett and Dey. In the seventh Arnold led off with a double and scored on Bartlett's single.

Larry Mines and Elroy Burton each drove in three runs and Bartlett and Bennett each got one RBI.

Mangrum Shaves 10 From Par 72 In St. Paul Meet

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 28—(AP)—Firing a record-shattering 62, ten strokes under par, Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago today snatched the lead at the three-quarter mark in the St. Paul open golf tournament.

That score gave him a 54-hole total of 196, and put him well out in front of an avid group of golfers who made a mockery of par figures for the par 72, 6,557-yard Keller municipal course.

Mangrum's 62 was one stroke better than the previous mark of 63 for an 18-hole round, held jointly by Harry Cooper, now a professional in Hawaii, and Horton Smith. Cooper made his 63 in the third round of the tourney in 1936 and Smith carded him in the final round in 1941.

The card for Mangrum's round, which he termed "the best I've ever shot," showed eight birdies and two strokes butchered off par on the 550-yard par 5 seventh hole.

Mangrum's 196 set him well out in front of the field. It was four strokes better than the 200 held by E. J. "Dutch" Harrison of St. Andrews, Ill. Harrison, who played in the same trio with Mangrum, carded a respectable five-under-par 67 today to go with his first-day 68 and seven-under-par 65 of yesterday.

Harry Middlecoff of Memphis, Tenn., another member of the trio, wound up with a six-under-par 66, good for a tie at 201 with Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Texas.

William Helis' Stable Sold To Lexington Breeder for Million

NEW ORLEANS, July 28—(AP)—The late William G. Helis' Jobstown, N. J., stable, consisting of 175 thoroughbreds, was sold today to a Lexington, Ky., breeder for more than $1,000,000.

Henry H. Knight, master of Almahurst farm at Lexington completed the deal here for the New Orleans millionaire's string of blood mares, colts and stallions.

Turfmen here called it the biggest single horse trade between individuals in their recollection.

Knight closed the purchase with William G. Helis, Jr.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Dodgers Grab 11th Straight From 'Birds

ST. LOUIS, July 28—(AP)—The league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers came from behind with two runs in the ninth tonight to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals for the 11th straight time, 3-2, before 32,792, largest crowd of the season here. Billy Cox singled and Andy Pafko doubled, scoring the decisive runs on outfield flies by Jackie Robinson and Duke Snider.

The victory kept the Dodgers nine and a half lengths in front of the second-place New York Giants.

In the ninth, Cox beat out an infield hit and Pafko, a pinch hitter, lined a hit down the left field line. The Cardinals protested it was foul but were overruled. After Al Walker was purposely passed, Robinson lined deep to right field, Cox scoring the tying run after the catch.

Red Schoendienst then fumbled a grounder by Reese, filling the bases, and Pafko scored the winning run on Snider's outfield fly to left.

The Cardinals had gone ahead 2-1 in the seventh when Bill Sarni reached first on a throwing error by Reese, stole second and went home on a single by Schoendienst.

The Dodgers took the lead in the first when Cal Abrams singled, advanaced on a single by Reese and a grounder, and scored on Gil Hodges' outfield fly.

The Cards tied the score in the third. Harry Lowery drove in Stan Musial with a double to the right field corner after Ralph Branca issued walks to Musial and Hal Rice.

The Redbirds threatened in their half of the ninth when Schoendienst doubled and Musial was purposely walked. But Hal Rice fouled out to end the game.

Hit by a pitched ball in the fourth inning, Carl Furillo started toward Cardinal pitcher Cloyd Boyer who advanced to meet him. The umpires and other players stepped between them before any blows were exchanged. All players of both clubs were on the field.

The umpires conferred and called for both managers. Cardinal manager Marty Marion joined the huddle, but manager Chuck Dressen of the Dodgers refused to take part in the discussion.

Philadelphia Scores 4th Straight Shutout

CHICAGO, July 28—(AP)—Russ Meyer today held the Chicago Cubs to seven singles as the Philadelphia Phillies edged the Cubs 1 to 0 before 10,806 for their 4th consecutive shutout victory in a row.

The Phils are now two games shy of the major league record for consecutive shutouts. The Pittsburgh Pirates set the mark of six in 1903.

Meyer didn't walk a batter in besting Cal McLish and two relief pitchers. The loss was the Cubs' fifth straight and their 11th in 15 meetings with the Phils.

Andy Seminick doubled and scored the game's only run in the fifth inning. Meyer bunted Seminick to third and Richie Ashburn singled the stocky receiver home.

Blues Journey To Knob Noster For Game Today

Manager Jack Slocum will take his Teen-Age Blues to Knob Noster today for a contest with the Knob Noster Teen-Age nine. The Blues walloped the Knobs in a previous meeting by a 17-2 count at Housel park.

Slocum will use either Jack Barnes or C. A. Smith on the mound with Eldon Lees catching. Other probable starters will be Don Higgins, 1b; Ben Smith or Stan Hickman, 2b; Bill Watson, ss; Bruce Wall, 3b; Wiley Walter, lf; Joe Fisher, cf; and either Joe Walter or John Higgins, rf.

In today's game the Blues will be out to regain their winning stride. They lost the deciding game of an intra-city series with the Post 16 American Junior Legion team at Liberty Park Wednesday night.

All players making the trip are requested to be at Housel park at12:30 p.m. to make the trip.

Sport Scraps

By D. Kelly Scruton

ONE of Sedalia's most patient baseball players is Jim Schumaker, who signed a professional baseball contract in 1949. Jim has coasted along and has been a limited player. He has done plently of traveling in his quest for a career in the nation's most favored sport. He is now the regular catcher for the "Sticks" at Baton Rouge, La., and is turning in a great job since becoming the first stringer.

Bill Williams, a Baton Rouge sports writer, in a recent article paid tribute to the young Sedalian. In his article Williams wrote, "In one way, Schumaker is an oddity among the "Sticks" in that he is the only member of the "Sticks" who failed to play baseball with his high school team. Schumaker got his start in the American Legion program as his high school failed to field a baseball team.

"His athletic talents in high school were confined to football, where he lettered at end one season. However, it was while going to high school he became interested in the Junior Legion ball and before he became too old he completed five years, gaining experience which gives him his back-ground for pro ball."

Jim, after he completed the Junior Legion turn, played Ban Johnson baseball with Slater, and it was in '47 that he went to the Ban Johnson Nationals with Slater. In '48 the Sedalia Ban Johnson Chiefs were organized and Jim played with the Chiefs. That year they won the Central Missouri League and District, but lost out in the State finals to a Kansas City team.

But it was the 1947 season the Yanks got a glimpse at Jim and signed him to a contract. However, he gained his release and was O.K. for the Chiefs having failed to played the necessary pro games. At that time he was sent to McAllister, Okla., for spring training and then to Marion, Ill. Seeing little action, he asked for his release and was granted it. He returned to Sedalia to resume play with the Chiefs.

It was in the spring of 1949 that Schumaker received a wire from the Browns and he reported to Pine Bluff, Ark., in the Cotton States league. He completed the season there with Pine Bluff with a batting average of .240. In 1950 he was sent to Kingston, Ont., of the Border league and the team finished third with Schumaker boosting his batting average to .275, despite the fact he had been out of play a month with a broken hand.

This spring he reported to Geneva, N. Y., of the same league and was later sold to the "Sticks" when he was hitting a good .318. The team up in the third spot in the league. Jim is still doing a neat job in batting.

He was signed as a reserve catcher with the "Sticks" but has since earned the first-string receiver position.

We all remember Schumaker and predict he won't stop in the minors. He has stretched out a little in height since leaving Sedalia standing an even six feet and tipping the scales at 165.

Jim is married, his wife the former Bonnie Pirtle. His wife stays with him most of the time during the baseball season. He returns home at the close of the season and is employed by Burkholder's propane gas and appliance company.

BASEBALL fans you may not want to believe it but it has been proven out that Ban Johnson baseball in Missouri is quite a lot faster baseball than semi-pro. When it was called to my attention, like everyone else I kinda smiled and passed it off. But proof is proof and I was made a believer.

Here it is. In the 1950 Missouri State baseball tournament the Chiefs who were tabbed the "Sedalia Whiz Kids" went to the finals and by a "fluke," lost the championship. There was and always will be that doubt in the minds of the Sedalia fans who believe Sedalia would have beaten the Holcomb Cardinals if the game hadn't been rained out after five innings. There were some mighty strong ball clubs in that tournament from over Missouri.

This year practically all of the B. J. Chiefs played with Knob Noster in the Richmond tournament. Incidentally all games won were by Joe Imhauser and Bobby Brown, Chief hurlers. The team won the tournament and five of the players, four of whom are B. J. players made the All-Star team.

Getting back into the Ban Johnson swing of things. The Chiefs have had a hard battle this year in the Central Missouri league, finished fourth in the first half of the season, and are tied for first place in the second half of the season, and it looks as if it will be a battle down to the wire.

SEDALIA may be the scene of a Ban Johnson tournament within a short time if the proper arrangements can be made. Sedalia fans will have an opportunity to see future major league players in action in this tournament if it comes about.

A suggestion was recently made to conduct such a tournament, and Sedalia got in a bid for it, should it materalize. Twelve teams would be entered and more than likely it would be a double elimination.

MAJOR Leagues continue to raid the Sedaila Chiefs taking local talent year-in and year-out. The latest to be signed is Jerry Lumpee, flashy shortstop, who is now the property of the New York Yankees. Jerry signed the past week, in fact it was Thursday night.

Gary Tuggle, who is a team mate of Jim Schumaker at Baton Rouge, Bob Shawver, Ralph Walker, Bob Ray, Ralph Fall, Don McMillen, all are ex-Chiefs now property of some major league club.

It gives Sedalia a good representation in baseball, some may reach the big time, other won't, but the list is far greater than it ever was before.

Racing Briefs From The Grand Circuit

Veteran Reinsman Closes Gap On Leader Of Record Times

Harry Pownall, veteran Grand Circuit reinsman, is slowly closing the gap between himself and 72-year-old Sep Palin, the leader among active drivers who have achieved harness racing victories in world record time.

When the 1951 campaign opened, Palin held 31 world standards and Pownall was a poor second with twelve. During the past few weeks, with the 4-year-old Star's Pride providing the impetus. Pownall has written his name alongside seven additional records to increase his lifetime total to nineteen.

Clint Hodgins, who had been third with ten, dropped a notch when Star's Pride wiped one of Proximity's standards from the book, and is now tied for third, at nine apiece. With Frank Ervin.

Although bargain basement horses, because of racing feats accomplished in light of a meagre purchase price, still pop up occasionally, they are usually a rarity on harness racings' Grand Circuit. The year 1951 is no exception.

Among the major stake winners in their respective 2-year-old divisions this season have been the pacers Voting Trust ($26,500) and Gander ($25,000), and the trotting colt Theme Song ($17,500). Voting Trust and Theme Song are owned by The Hayes Fair Acres Stable, Du Quion, Illinois. C. N. Saunders, Toledo, O., owns Gander.

Others who have either been winners or have finished close up in important stage events include Proximite ($16,000), Scotch Victor ($13,000), Hit Song ($12,600), Empire Hanover ($12,500), Diplomat Hanover ($8,000), and Vesta's Worthy ($6,300). All were purchased at public auction last fall.

An accident, coupled with a trainer's initiative, sometimes produces unexpected harness racing results. Ralph Baldwin, trainer-driver for Leo C. McNamara's Two Gaits Farm Stable, discovered that recently in Grand Circuit competition.

Baldwin's trotter, the 3-year-old Prince Colby, made a break in the first heat and threw one of his hind shoes. After catching stride, the colt raced well the remainder of the mile.

Between heats, Baldwin decided to take drastic action. He pulled off the other rear shoe and Prince Colby took the word in the second heat unshod behind. The Price trotted in 2:06 3-5 over a half mile track and licked his field handily.

Although Baldwin isn't convinced that it's the best way to race the colt, the performance probably earned him a starting date in $90,000 Hambletonian, scheduled to be raced at Goshen, N. Y., two weeks hence. The son of Colby Hanover is a stablemate of Scotch Rhythec, one of the top choices for the harness racing clasic.

Baldwin says that if Prince Colby goes to the post in the big one, he'll be wearing four shoes —no use pressing his luck too far.

Benny Schue, contract driver for the Hayes Fair Acres Stable, Du Quoin, Ill., has established a new seasonal record for heat victories during a single racing proyram at a pari-mutuel track.

Schue piloted seven winners recently at Goshen Historic to dethrone Frank Ervin who had taken over the 1951 crown with six winners only the day before. Schue scored two wins apiece with Mighty Fine, Atomic Maid and Direct Rhythm and finished on top once with Spennib.

Before Schue and Ervin got toing at Goshen, Stanley Dancer and Curly Smart had been setting the seasonal pace with five wins apiece on a single program. Dancer did it at Yonkers early in the year with five different horses. Smart equalled that a few weeks later at Toledo, O.

World's Largest Draft Horses To Be Featured at State Fair

The world champion Clydesdale horses, an eight-horse hitch of the largest draft horses on earth, will be featured at the Missouri State Fair which will be held in Sedalia August 18-26.

Owned by Budweiser, the horses weigh an average of 2,000 pounds (one ton) each. They have won a great collection of medals, cups and ribbons and are the most traveled horses in the United States.

The team will make appearances nightly at the horse show and will be on public display all week.

Vollmer Stars As BoSox Win Over Indians

NEW YORK, July 28—(AP)—Clyde (Clutch) Vollmer came through in the pinch again today, blasting a grand slam homer in the 16th inning with two out to give the Boston Red Sox an 8-4 triumph over the Cleveland Indians.

Vollmer's money belt enabled the Red Sox to snap their second place tie with the Indians and move to within a half game of the league-leading New York Yankees in the tight American league pennat scramble. The loss dropped the Indians 1½ games behind the Yanks. The Yanks' game with the fourth place Chicago White Sox was rained out.

Vollmer, whose timely hitting during the past month has highlighted the Red Sox rise, connected off Bob Feller, fourth Cleveland pitcher. The blow was Vollmer's 18th of the year and his 13th of the month.

Lefty Mickey McDermott shared the spotlight with Vollmer. McDermott went all the way for the Red Sox allowing 11 hits. McDermott fanned 15 and walked only one. The strikeouts enabled Mickey to take the major league lead in that department with 102. It was McDermott's second long exhibition of the season. He pitched 17 of 19 innings against Chicago on July 12.

The Red Sox nicked starter Early Winn for a 2-0 lead in the first inning. The Indians tied it up with single runs in the seventh and eighth frames.

Cleveland took a 3-2 lead in the 15th on a double by Bob Kennedy and pinch single by George Stirnweiss but Vollmer delivered a clutch single in the last half to score Goodman and tie the score. The Indians moved ahead, 4-3, in the 16th when Ray Boone doubled and scored on a single by Larry Doby.

The Sox came right back in their half. With one out Johnny Pesky walked and scored on Williams' double to left. Vern Stephens also walked and after Bob Doerr flied out for the second out. Goodman strolled to load the bases. Vollmer took the first pitch for a The New York Giants, who havdelivery out of sight to break up the game.

A's Bow To Detroit As Rally Falls Short

PHILADELPHIA, July 28—(AP)—A ninth inning rally fell one short of its mark as the Philadelphia A's bowed to Detroit, 6 to 5 today.

The A's had the tying run at second base after Hank Majeski doubled home Dave Philley, who had singled, and Gus Zernal, who had walked, with one out. However, Hal White, third pitcher used by the Tigers, retired both Pete Suder and Joe Astroth in order to preserve the victory.

Concordia Plays Levis Here Today In Loop Contest

The Sedalia Levis will play host to the Concordia V.F.W. tonight at the Center Park in a Central Missouri sofetball league contest. The game is scheduled to start at 8:30.

The Levis and Marshall are now tied for the lead in the league. Emma downed Marshall Thursday

In a loop game played at Concordia Friday night, the Levis dumped the V.F.W. club there 10-5. This contest was a tight affair until the sixth when the locals broke-loose to ice the tilt.

Belsha hurled for the Levis and allowed nine hits. Riesterer of Concordia was touched for 11 by the Sedalians. Logan led the Levis with two for two. He was followed by Simon, Hill and Belsha, who each connected twice in four trips. Barnes hit a circuit clout for the Sedalians in the fifth.

Coach Dow Attends High School Clinic For Coaches At Valley

Coach Ralph "Stub" Dow, head football coach at Smith-Cotton high school was a member of the faculty at the Missouri Valley college's Annual Coaching Clinic, held in Marshall Friday and Saturday.

The clinic included talks on football, basketball, officiating, publicity, and administration. Several successful high school coaches conducted this clinic.

Dow talked on single wing offense. He is a single-wing man, and has consistently produced outstanding teams.

Cochise Takes Feature Race At Arlington

CHICAGO, July 28—(AP)—Cochise, a streak of grey from the East, today charged to a length and a half victory in the $143,750 Arlington Handicap to earn $100,000 for his owner, Donald Ross, president of Delaware Park.

Cochise, leading most of the way, stood off a challenge by Oil Capitol, and County Delight, second choice in the wagering, finished third, another length and a half back. The King Ranch's Curandero, trailing the eight horse field down the back stretch, came with a rush to finsh fourth.

The winner, with Jockey Orvie Scurlock up, covered the mile and a quarter over a slow, heavy track in 2:03 4-5.

The favored Oil Capitol, owned by Tom Gray, Tulsa, Okla., and Mrs. Harry Trotsek, Louisville, launched the stoutest challenge of Cochise's seven pursurers. He closed briskly in the stretch, but could not gain the last sixteenth.

Greentree Stable's One Hitter, second up to the stretch bend wound up fifth. Then came Hal Price Headley Aegina, Hasty House Farm's Inseparable (coupled with Oil Capital) and M. A. and Roy Saffir's Dr. Ole Nelson.

Because of the soft racing strip, two of the 10 overnight nominees —Walmac Farm's Volcanic and Mrs. John Payson Adams' Miche, were scratched.

Today's $100,000 pot shot Cochise's earning to $144,425 for the year and his lift time earning to $255,415.

1st Jalopy Race Scheduled Today At 28th-Ingram

Many Sedalians will have their first opportunity to see jalopy races this afternoon at the new V.F.W. figure 8 jalopy track at 28th and Ingram. The races will start at 1:30 p.m.

Many top drivers from Central Missouri have indicated they are going to enter the first Sedalia races as well as many Sedalains.

The track has just been built by the Howard Brothers Construction Company. It is a figure 8, but extremely smooth compared with other jalopy tracks in this area. With a smooth track, the races should be faster than past races.

The Sedalia races are sponsored by the Central Missouri Racing Association and the Sedalia V.F.W. and are promoted by Glenn Jones.

Gehringer Gets Job

Evans Quits Big Position With Tigers

DETROIT, July 28— (AP) —William G. (Billy) Evans today announced his resignation as executive vice president and general manager of the Detroit Tigers effective at the end of the season and the club said Charlie Gehringer, one of its all-time greats on the playing field, would be his successor.

Surprise Announcement

The surprise announcement came as the Tigers were on an eastern road trip and staggering through their worst season since Evans took over nearly five years ago. The club currently is only a game ahead of sixth place Washington.

A wealthy man, the 67-year-old Evans said he would leave the Tigers Oct. 1, but he doesen't know if he'll retire.

"I have always been so active I may not be table to," he said "I can always pull out my typewriter and return to newspaper writing."

Owner Walter O. Briggs said Gehringer was the only man considered for the position.

"My task was to persuade Charley to take the job," Briggs said.

Rolfs Keeps Managership.

Reached on a golf course, Gehringer disclosed that Red Rolf would be back as manager next season.

"I like Red and I think he is a wonderful manager," Gehringer said. "What's more important, Mr. Briggs likes Red. He told me so.

Gehringer said Briggs "just did not give me a chance to say no. He held out his hand for about 10 second waiting for me to shake on the bargain and finally got embarrassed, grasped my hand and sho 'k it."

The former star said the negotiations took place 10 days ago.

Gehringer ended a 19-year careere with the Tigers in 1942 and now is a partner in a lucrative manufacturing business.

Gehringer A Detroit Great

Quiet, soft-spoken, Gehringer was one of the game's greatest second basemen. He had a lifetime average of 321 and in 1937 was named the American league's most valuable player. The holder of numerous other records, he batted .321 in three world series and .500 in six all-star games. He was elected to baseball Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y., in 1949.

In Philadelphia Manager Red Rolfe and his players received the announcement just prior to the start of today's game with the Athletics. Rolfe was visibly shaken.

Rolfe Praises Evans

"Billy has been a great man to work for," Rolfe said. The blame in some quarters for the team's failure this year has been pinned directly on Billy. If he is to blame, then so am I. He let me run the club completely."

Rolfe termed Evans " a victim of circumstances" this season.

Baseball's Hunt For Commissioner In Serious Phase

NEW YORK, uly 28— (AP) — Baseball's search for a commissioner to replace A. B. Chandler at $65,000 per year enters the serious phase within the next two weeks.

Ellis Ryan of the Cleveland Indians, a member of the screening committee, said in a telephone interview from Cleveland that he expected both leagues to meet shortly after Aug. 1 "when for the first time we will talk about specific names."

A long list of potential commissioners has been prepared, and the committee has decided on the necessary qualifications for the job.

In baseball circles there is still much talk of a baseball man as being needed for the job—and the names most frequently heard are Ford Frick, president of the National league, and George Trautman, head of the minors.

Outside baseball the big names discussed include General Dauglas MacArthur, former Postmaster General James Farley, and Governor Frank Lausche of Ohio.

Recognition Not Men For The Old Maids

DENTON, Tex., July 28—(AP)—Old Maids' Day, brainchild of an old maid schoolteacher, will be observed August 15.

Mayor Mark Hannah of Denton has issued a proclamation designating the day. Big plans are afoot.

Happy about it all is Miss Dorothy Babb, Latin instructor at North Texas State College here. It was her idea, and she expects it to grow.

It was a year ago that Miss Babb began thinking about the unfairness of an old maid's life.

Old maids, she said, spend a lot of their money buying wedding and shower gifts. When their married friends have babies, the old maids come through with rattles, infant clothing, etc. Then came the wedding anniversaries.

She sat down and did some pencilwork. The result was an estimate that in 25 years she had spent $1,500 on gifts for others.

"Why," she asked publicly, "not have an old maids' day?"

Most spinsters here just drew their cloak of modesty a bit more tightly around them. But some courageous souls joined Miss Babb. There was a party in a theater last year—with the old maids on the stage. About 300 old maids took part.

And, as a result of the publicity Miss Babb received letters and gifts from all over the world.

There were even a half-dozen marriage proposals. But Miss Babb kindly explained that the old maids wanted recognition, not men.

The 1951 old maids day here will include a free movie, a tea, corsages and presents from local florists and merchants. There'll also be a special stage show. Plans are in the hands of a special citizens' committee. They're married people, of course.

Traffic Cases In The Police Court

Seventeen overtime parking ticket bonds of one-dollar each were ordered forfeited by Judge Jerry Trotter in police court, Saturday morning. Nine of the seventeen tickets were turned in by Thomas W. Wilson, 1105 Ware.

Robert Hunsaker, 334 Randolph, arrested by police for careless driving from Engineer and Chestnut to Washington and St. Louis, pleaded guilty to that charge and was fined $25.00. Hunsacker was arrested later Friday night, on a charge of speeding 40-miles per hour on east Broadway, to which he pleaded guilty and was fined $10.00.

Walter Embree, Beaman, arrested for careless driving on complaint of Erwin Thompson, 253 East Jackson, failed to appear in police court and his cash bond of $50.00 was ordered forfeited.

Restrictions On Water Use Lifted

KANSAS CITY, July 28—(AP)—All restrictions on use of water because of flood conditions were lifted today.

L. P. Cookingham, city manager, said all consumers can use as much water as 'absolutely necessary." But he strongly urged that no water be wasted because, until all pumps are returned to service there is still a possibility of having to restore some restrictions in case of emergency.

Gets Filled Up On Bison Lore In The Plains

By Hal Boyle

BELLE FOURCHE, S. D.—(AP)—You don't have to see a furbearing cow to believe in it—but it helps. Yes even if the fur isn't there when you see it.

The fur-bearing cow, called a Brahmalo, was produced by Pete Rosander, a crippled, 54-year-old rancher. He got it by crossing a Buffalo bull with Brahma cows. It may be one of America's leading meat animals of tomorrow.

Pete now has 16 of these odd half-breed critters and a herd of 23 Buffalo. I rode in a motor car with him across his sagebrush-studed acres for a look at them.

On the way Pete, who is a kind of Buffalo psyciatrist, filled me with Bison lore. He has a way with animals, and no other man alive bets along with a Buffalo better—or knows more about it.

"You cool off by sweating or panting," he aid. "People and Brahma cows sweat. Buffalo pant—like dogs do. They can hang their tongue out a foot. And the further it hangs the faster and further they can run.

"I don't know yet whether my Brahmalo sweat or not. I don't know how they taste either. Haven't killed one. Most people think Buffalo meat is tough. It isn't. You can eat it with a spoon. You got to get a 15-year old bull to get tough Buffalo meat."

In the pasture ahead a group of brown and white animals suddenly startled in graceful flight.

"Antelope," said Pete. "I been trying for 40 years to get one to eat out of my hand. I will yet, too. Most hunters try to shoot one with the biggest horns. Eating a buck like that is just like eating an old tame goat."

Buffalo Cookies

Our automobile came to the herd of browsing Buffalo. Pete drove right into the middle of it. He reached into a pail of "Buffalo cookies"—hotdog-shaped mixtures of corn, soybeans, molasses and salt—and began to thrust them into the mouths of his Bison buddies.

They crowded up like great, awkward four-footed children, hungry for candy. As the huge slavering jaws thrust their way into the open car window, I began to feel uneasy. When a Buffalo gets that close, I prefer him on a nickel.

"Everybody tells you a Buffalo is wild," said Pete. "I don't think they're wild. Look—come here, cow—watch this one suck my finger."

He put in his hand an brought it out whole, and I thought that was nice. Then he got out of the car, stomped a few feet with the help of his cane, and began feeding the nudging Buffalo more cookies.

"The longer you're around them, the gentler they get," he said. "If you aren't afraid of them, they aren't afraid of you. They're like big dogs.

"Once I brought an old lady out here and she wanted to know how I kept them so gentle. I told her they were like women. If a woman has got a fur coat and you feed her regular and treat her nice, it isn't too hard to get along with her. Same way with a Buffalo."

"But I was glad when he left the herd and drove over toward the Brahmalo, who graze apart from the Buffalo.

"They're just like most relatives," Pete said. "The further apart they are the better they get along."

They gleamed shiny fat in the hot July sun, and they had a Brahma cow body and a kind of Buffalo head.

"Where's the fur?" I asked, feeling cheated.

"Well, you know, it's shed now—being summer," said Pete, and I felt really silly. "But in the winter they look like big black Tomcats. When it gets below zero, they don't shiver off weight or hump up behind a fence post like ordinary cattle to try to get away from the wind. They're out running foot races. The cold just don't bother them."

Is Better Protected

Pete has spent nine stubborn years developing the Brahmalo. He thinks it is more efficient than the ordinary white-faced steer because he says it can protect itself better from cold, requires less winter feed, and can grow almost as much flesh on cheap range grass as a steer fattened on expensive corn.

As we drove away one big Brahmalo steer lumbered after the car, eager for more cookies from Pete's hand.

And Pete, who can tell each of his animals better than the average person can separate and recognize people, looked back at his strange herd and said rather defensively:

"Nobody but a cripple would fool with them—not really knowing where he was going."

And then the pride that makes Pierre Rosander the stubborn pioneer he is came out—in a quite brag.

"I probably got the poorest ranch in the world—1,000 acres of mostly sagebrush," he said, and a grin split his face like an ax stroke in a weathered tree. "When I plowed up part of it to raise some wheat, a neighbor bet me a hundred dollars I wouldn't get a crop in 10 years.

"Well, now, just look at it there. My third straight crop—and the best one yet."

Pete says he isn't really sure what he's doing—but he's going to go on doing it.

These U. S. Air Force flight nurses are learning by doing. Later, they will teach medical technicians how to properly load a stretcher aboard an airplane. Travel, adventure, and a career of service await registered nurses who join today's Air Force. As flight nurses they receive additional pay and wear silver wings. There is a shortage of nurses in the Air Force and there is plenty of opportunity for advanced training and promotion for new nurses.

The Library

Majestic on its terraced ground
With shade trees growing all around,
Stands there a dream of man come true,
A dream he worked to carry through;
A boy who found upon some shelves
Books that were teachers in themselves,
Books that were loaned him by a friend
A Treasured Memory to the end;
And thus he pledged some day to share
Books with people just everywhere,
'Twas 50 years ago that he Received from our own town a plea
To help to build a building here,
A building that we all hold dear
For who of us from childhood on
To that stone building have not gone
For fairy tales, adventure, too,
For mysteries to find the clue
For fiction with a happy ending,
For school work, with our teacher sending,
For books of knowledge, books of art,
Books of poems that reach the heart,
Travelogues into far places,
Stories of people of all races,
These are the wealth those stone walls hold,
Books that are written for young or old,
Could that small group of men foresee
What it would mean to loan books free,
To men and women and children, too,
Yes, that group of citizens knew,
That's why they built that building there
For knowledge and joy we all might share.

The Sedalia Public Library To Observe 50th Anniversary

2-Day Celebration; Children On Monday, Adults Tuesday

The two day celebration of the 50th anniversary of the library will be climaxed with an address Tuesday evening by Senator C. R. Hawkins, from the 33rd district, who will take for his subject: "Education Advances Freedom."

Senator Hawkins has been influential in the years he has been a senator since 1944 in putting through library legislation and has worked tirelessly in helping libraries throughout the state.

Born in Brumley, Mo., on October 29, 1900, Senator Hawkins was educated in the Brumley public schools, Missouri Military academy and Central Missouri State college. He was married in Warrensburg to Miss Mabel Clare Foster and they have four children.

He has been employed as assistant cashier and cashier of the Bank of Brumley since 1920.

Senator Hawkins will be introduced by Lawrence Barnett, chairman of the legislative committee of the library board.

Invocation and benediction will be by the Rev. William C. Bessmer, pastor of the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed church.

Miss Hazel Gray, president of the library board, will present past members of the Sedalia public library board, the present board members, the library staff members, Dan Doty state representative and Mayor Herb Studer.

Monday will be devoted to the children who are invited to visit the library for a party at 1:30 that afternoon and bring a friend.

There will be a large pasteboard birthday cake that looks just like a real birthday cake and each member with a guest may put a candle on the cake. A picture show will be shown and summer reading class certificates will be distributed. There will be refreshments, too, but not the pasteboard birthday cake.

Tuesday will be open house for adults during the entire day from 11 a. m. on with the program in the evening.

During the past 50 years there has been little change in the method of giving out books. People still visit the same desk in front as they did in the days of high boned collars and many petticoats and obtain their books through library cards from some helpful member of the staff. There is no need to change the system into a fast and high powered modern machine system as has been done in some of the large city libraries because the very busy hours do not exist here as they do there. Here the library staff may still give personal attention to their patrons.

New things have been added through the years but the building remains about the same with the exception of the walls cleaned or painted at intervals and redecoration has just shortly been completed, so shortly that the library staff almost held their breath for fear the job would not be finished in time, but it was and the library is spic and span.

Senator C. R. Hawkins

A really modern touch are the rest rooms on the second floor that have recently been modernized from the very old to the very new.

One of the most helpful services offered by the library and should be used more by the people of Sedalia is the subscription book bulletin in which is a service that tells whether books such as dictionaries, encyclopedias and other types of books have good reviews or not. The bulletin is compiled by the American Library association. This service started January 1930, and is an organization of librarians trained to evaluate these books. From this bulletin the public may check to see if the books they are about to buy is given a good recommendation by people who know. This service, like all other services by the library, is free.

Another service that is now available is the use of the Recordak on which articles in the back issues of the Sedalia Democrat may be found in films. The library hopes later to have other papers preserved in the same manner.

A program which was started here January 1 and was given a six months trial ending July 1, are films, educational and documental, in which may be found films on nature, sports, community life, music, travel, health, history and many other things, some in natural color.

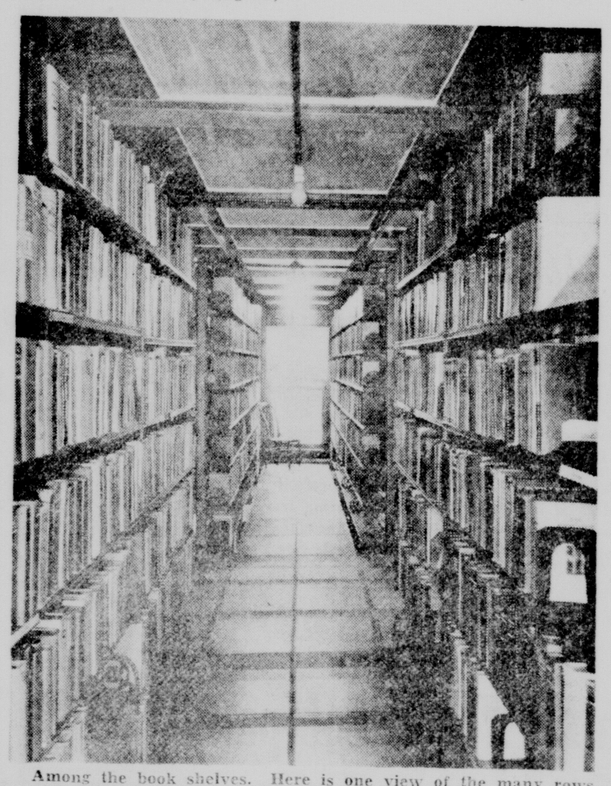

The service was found so popular that the library has contracted for the plan. The films are loaned to groups only, but 272 were loaned in the trial period which were viewed by 16,272 persons. All of the three religious groups, Protestant, Catholic and Jewish have made use of the films.

This, too, was made possible by Carnegie. In the spring of 1948 the Missouri State Librarian submitted a proposal to Carnegie Corporation of New York in which she outlined a plan for distributing films through the public libraries. The proposal was accepted and the Missouri State Library received a grant of $15,000.00. This money is to be used over a period of three years for the support of a demonstration of films distribution and use through libraries. Every tax supported library in the state was given an opportunity to be included in the program and there are 22 libraries in the plan.

Sedalia Public Library to Observe 50th Anniversary

Among other things the library is open for meetings of any cultural or educational groups wanting to use it and last year 134 different groups held meetings in the library.

With the exception of a few things added like those mentioned above, things are just about the same at the library as they were 50 years ago, however, the number of books to be loaned have increased from 4,027 in 1901 to 31,702.

The library staff and the library board have big ideas, though, they have ideas of modernizing, ideas of getting more modern things, to add more services, but these things cost money, and the library budget is very limited. Thus, these things will be added slowly.

In visiting the Sedalia public library Tuesday it would be well for Sedalians to consider what this building and service in the community means to them. It was expressed well by one non-resident reader who is required to pay a dollar a year.

"I'm glad to pay the dollar," she said, "I figured up how much it would have cost me to buy all the books I have read in the past year and it would have cost me $90.00."

Library Board Members

Miss Hazel Gray, president of the library board, was born and reared in Sedalia. She attended the Central Missouri State college, Warrensburg, and George Peabody college, Nashville, Tenn., after which she returned to Sedalia to become a teacher in the Sedalia public schools. Miss Gray, who is a member of the faculty of Smith-Cotton high school, is outstanding in her profession.

Ray W. Hunt, 1405 West Third, secretary-treasurer of the Sedalia Savings and Loan association, has been a member of the library board since June 1942, filling the unexpired term of William Courtney. Mr. Hunt has been in business in Sedalia for 20 years. (Photo by Lehmer)

Victor H. Winnberg, 1115 West Sixth, who has been a member of the library board for three terms. Mr. Winnberg retired 11 years ago as division foreman for the Missouri Pacific railroad here.

Mrs. H. L. Terry, a former president of the public library board, who has been a member of the board for 24 years.

Mrs. Arthur Hoffman, 825 West Sixth, who has been a member of the board for the past several years was on the original library staff after the building was built. She was then Marguerite McDaniel and the night of her graduation from high school was elected as second assistant at the library, the first assistant being Sarah McGowan, who later married a Warrensburg dentist. With the exception of a leave of absence to attend the University of Missouri she was on the library staff until 1911 when she was married to Mr. Hoffman.

Best Sellers In Fiction

An attractive display of best fiction sellers for each year from 1901 to 1951 has been constructed by Miss Philomene Bergmann and is in the lobby of the library.

Attractive booklets, designed by Miss Bergmann, and containing the best sellers for each year will be presented visitors at the library during Tuesday afternoon and evening.

A shelf will also be set aside with these best sellers on them. Some now have new backs and some of the most popular have been replaced, sometimes several times.

Mrs. Elza Berry On State Board

Mrs. Elza P. Berry, 206 West Seventh, who has been a member of the Sedalia public library board for 21 years, was given a distinct honor when she was chosen as a member of the Advisory Board of Trustees and Citizens' Division of the Missouri Library association.

The advisory board was elected last year from the membership by Library Trustees all over the state to represent them in the library affairs of the state. The board is composed of some of the most active and interested trustees and meets at regular intervals with the officers of the Trustee Division to discuss library affairs of the entire state and to plan their subsequent program of action.

Members of the board are as follows: Dean F. F. Stephens, Columbia; Judge B. E. Briggs, Hannibal; Mrs. Philip Strop, St. Joseph; Mrs. H. R. Hanley, Rolla, Bryon Rea, Bolivar; Mrs. Elza Berry, Sedalia; Mrs. W. O. Burnett, New Madrid; Glen Crockett, Kaho Kas.; Mrs. Carlos Hill, Richmond and Henry Guhleman, Jefferson City.

Mrs. Berry's selection for the board was made through her record of outstanding and untiring work on the Sedalia library board through the years. She was appointed to the board here by Mayor Sid Kennon and is serving her 22nd year, which is her eighth three year term. Even when just a teen age girl she was interested in library work and her graduating essay was on the juvenile library. She attended Knox college which was attended by her parents and her grandfather before her.

Mrs. Berry was in Florida working for the local Seaboard while the Seaboard Airline railroad was being built from Key West to Miami after which she came to Sedalia. She was in Washington, D. C., with the U. S. Veterans Administration and then as secretary to John W. Palmer, when he was representative from this district.

Upon her return to Sedalia Mrs. Berry went into the Hurlbut Printing company with her father and brother William E. Hurlbut and William E. Hurlbut, Jr. During this time she has not only been on the library board but has taken an active part in civic and club affairs. Mrs. Berry is a member of the Symphony Orchestra and was one of the originators; she served as president of the Sedalia Business and Professional Women's club totaling three and one half years; she served as regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution two terms; is on the permanent house committee of the Helen G. Steele Music club and is a member of Sorosis.

Present Library Staff

Miss Mary Kay English, 227 South Prospect, who has been librarian at the Sedalia public library for the past seven years and was on the library staff several years prior to that. Miss English is the daughter of Mrs. John J. English and the late Mr. English and was born in Pettis county where she has spent her entire life. She is active in library organizations in the state and community and is a member of the American Library Association. (Photo by Robert Zoernig)

Mrs. Virginia May Wickliffe, 1023 East Ninth, wife of William Wickliffe has been on the staff of the Sedalia public library since November 1949. Born in Erie, Pa., Mrs. Wickliffe received her education there and was graduated from college after which she worked in the Erie public library. During the war years she went to the University of Arizona where she worked on her masters degree and was employed in the university library. She was married to Mr. Wickliffe, a Sedalian, who was in the service at that time, and after his discharge they came to Sedalia to make their home. (Photo by Robert Zoernig)

Miss Yvonne Leiter, children's librarian for the past two years, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Leiter, route 2, was born in Sedalia and has spent her entire life in and around Sedalia. Prior to entering library service, Miss Leiter taught in the Pettis county schools for three years. Last summer she attended the library school at Denton, Tex. (Photo by Lehmer)

Miss Marie Elizabeth Fritz, 415 West Sixth, assistant in the adult department of the Sedalia public library accepted a position on the library staff on April 1, 1947 following a number of years of clerical experience. Miss Fritz, a native Sedalian, attended summer library school during her vacations the past several years for training in reference service, cataloging, book selection and other courses applied toward a degree in library science. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Fritz. (Photo by Robert Zoernig)

Miss Nettie R. Lamm, 312½ West Fifth, daughter of the late Judge and Mrs. Henry Lamm, was born and reared in Sedalia. After serving a number of years as a member of the faculty of the Sedalia high school Miss Lamm went into Red Cross work and was with the National Red Cross with headquarters in St. Louis and later in Kansas. Having always been interested in library work Miss Lamm after returning to Sedalia became a member of the library staff here in 1924. Her work in the Red Cross has continued through the years since her return to her home town where she has been a member of the local Red Cross for 29 years. Besides her regular library work Miss Lamm has a special duty around the library. The only one who seems to possess a green thumb on the staff she keeps the house plants growing even to the dying fern that found its way into the library and brightened up with her touch into a vigorous, beautiful plant. Story of the Dedication From Files of Democrat

(July 28, 1901 from Sedalia Democrat)

SEDALIA LIBRARY

Formal Opening to Take Place Tuesday Night

A SPLENDID PROGRAMME

Building Elegantly Furnished—Donations of Art by Mesdames Smith and Cotton

It has been definitely settled that the dedication of the library building will be held next Tuesday evening, July 30, at 8 o'clock in the large art room in the second story of the building.

The Sedalia Military band has donated the music and will furnish free their string bands.

Mr. Gelven, the Park avenue florist, has kindly offered to decorate the building with potted flowers. The programme follows:

"History of the Old Building" Mr. D. H. Smith.

Formal acceptance of the building on behalf of the City of Sedalia, Rev. E. W. Clippinger.

"Library Architecture" Mr. John Lawrence Mauran, St. Louis.

"The Public Library—A Paying Investment" Mr. F. N. Cruden, librarian St. Louis Public Library.

Electric fans will be operated to make the room as cool as possible. The library building will be lighted from the basement throughout and will present an attractive appearance.

The entire public is invited. The ceremonies will be free and all who attend can go through the entire building. The addresses will be very interesting.

Mr. Cruden, the librarian of the St. Louis Public library, is one of the leading men in his profession, and one of the most pleasing and instructive speakers in the country.

On the morning following the dedication of the building the librarian will open daily during the same hours as were observed in old quarters.

Mrs. Cotton, on behalf of Mrs. Smith and herself, on Friday notified the library board of their intention and desire to present the Public Library with a collection of etchings and art photographs, collected by them while in Europe several years ago.

The gift has been thankfully received. The collection was yesterday moved to the new building and at the next meeting of the board will be formally acknowledged by a resolution or letter of thanks.

The generous actions of Mesdames Smith and Cotton will be highly appreciated by the public generally, and it is to be hoped that others may do likewise.

The new library building contains a beautiful and spacious art gallery. Others in Sedalia doubtless have paintings, pictures, statuette and other works of art, some of which they may be willing to donate to the library, so that hundreds may enjoy them instead of a few.

At this time so many extra expenses have accumulated that the library board is now and cannot for years expend any money in the purchase of art. However others can, and it is to be hoped will follow the generous and commendable example of Mrs. Smith and Cotton.

The furnishings of the library are elegant in their simplicity. All the furniture matches the wood work finish, which is golden oak.

As one enters the front he faces the general delivery desk, while on his right and left, respectively, are the children's reading room and the general reading room. These rooms are covered with thick cork carpet, made in Europe, which prevents noise from footsteps.

Six reading tables, library chairs and two book cases for juvenile books make up the furnishings of the children's reading room.

The general reading room is furnished with the same number of large reading tables, library chairs, cases of reference books, newspaper files and a periodical rack.

Both rooms have a large number of electric lights and each table has two lights with green desk shades.

The librarian's room is fitted out with a large desk, with a sliding cover. This is just back of the general delivery desk.

The catalogue cases of the books occupy the front hall and the general reading room, the author and title cases being in the hall and the subject catalogue case in the general reading room.

The directors room on the second floor contains a large golden oak table, running nearly the entire length, and handsome leather chairs. This room is on the west side of the buiding and on the opposite side is the art room which is not yet finished.

A Tribute To Our Library!

You don't think of it often, or perhaps not at all. But we would remind you, in all sincerity, that you pass the world's accumulated knowledge most every single day! You say, "I don't know the answer" to some school or home question. Has it occurred to you that the answer probably lies in a free book in our friendly and well-stocked library? Maybe you want to improve yourself, so you can qualify for a better job. Why don't you give our library a chance to impart the knowledge you need? We salute the fine, quietly-efficient men and women who work in our library. Make them your friends and get the most from their books!

For Faithful Service...

We salute the public-spirited men and women who have made this 50th Anniversary observance of The Sedalia Public Library possible

Fifty years ago, Rev. E. W. Clippinger, in accepting the gift of the Sedalia Public Library for the people of Sedalia, said: "...a great trust...and power is imposed with the library board to place in the hands of the people efforts of the geniuses of the past and the inspiring records of the heroes and heroines of literature."

That the library boards and staffs of the past and present have carried out their charge is evidenced by the efficiently operating library, and the thousands of volumes on every conceivable subject that are available to all citizens of this community for enlightenment, recreation and guidance... for a richer, fuller life.

Mrs. Brenneman And Father Played Big Part in Library

Mrs. J. H. Brenneman, 120 West Broadway, who was the former Gertrude Smith is the only living member of the original library board and is pictured as she looked at that time. She is the daughter of the late D. H. Smith who was responsible for the gift of $50,000 from Andrew Carnegie for the library.

Other members of the board were: Charles E. Yeater, president, Mrs. Helen Galley Steele, vice president, Lee Montgomery, secretary, W. B. Mackey, Mrs. Teresa M. Burrowes, Maurice McCabe, Otis W. Smith and Charles E. Messerly.

Mrs. Brenneman this past week presented to the librarian, Miss Mary English, a silver spoon on which was engraved the picture of the library building beneath which was the lettering: "Carnegie Library, Sedalia, Mo."

Two of these spoons were made by the Bichsel brothers and were presented to Mrs. Brenneman and her sister. Miss English was also recently given an ash tray with the picture of the library on it which was made years ago in Japan.

Letters were written by Mr. Smith to Mr. Carnegie, who had been grateful for the use of a friend's library when just a young man who could not afford books. When wealth came Mr. Carnegie used great sums of it to establish libraries so all may use them.

Mr. Smith's first letter asking for a gift for the Sedalia public library was long delayed because Mr. Carnegie had gone to Scotland but when the letter did reach him he immediately cabled Mr. Smith. Shortly after that the first letter came from Mr. Carnegie's sercetary, James Bertram, and with two other letters, follows:

It was a called board meeting on November 13, 1899 an announcement was made to members that Mr. Smith had something to say to the board.

Mr. Smith stated that while he was in the east he had read in the local paper where the library was about to be ejected from its present location so he had decided to evoke the aid of Andrew Carnegie, philanthropist, who had been erecting numerous library buildings over the country. He went on to tell the board that he had business dealings with Mr. Carnegie for a number of years and had written to him in August.

From Skibo Castle, Arogay, N. B., in Scotland came the first reply to Mr. Smith's request dated October 28th, 1899.

D. H. Smith, Esq.,
Sedalia, Mo.

Dear Sir,

Yours of 2nd August to New York just received. If Sedalia will agree to provide a suitable site and spend $4,000 per year upon the maintenance of a library, Mr. Carnegie, will provide $50,000 for a library building.

Very respectfully yours,
Jas. Bertram,
P. Secretary.

His letter was read by Mr. Smith at the board meeting and Dr. J. B. Fuller, Mr. Yeater and Mr. Mackey were appointed to make arrangements about the new library and instructed Mr. Smith to write Mr. Carnegie.

The second and third letters from Mr. Carnegie's secretary follow:

The second letter was from New York dated November 28th, 1899.

D. H. Smith, Esq.,
Sedalia, Mo.,

Dear Sir,

Mr. Carnegie desires me to say that your communication is entirely satisfactory. He will risk Sedalia dispensing with the library. When the vote is passed as you suggest the drafts of proper authorities will be paid from time to time as needed for the building. Mr. Carnegie desires you to receive his hearty congratulations and best wishes for the future of of Sedalia.

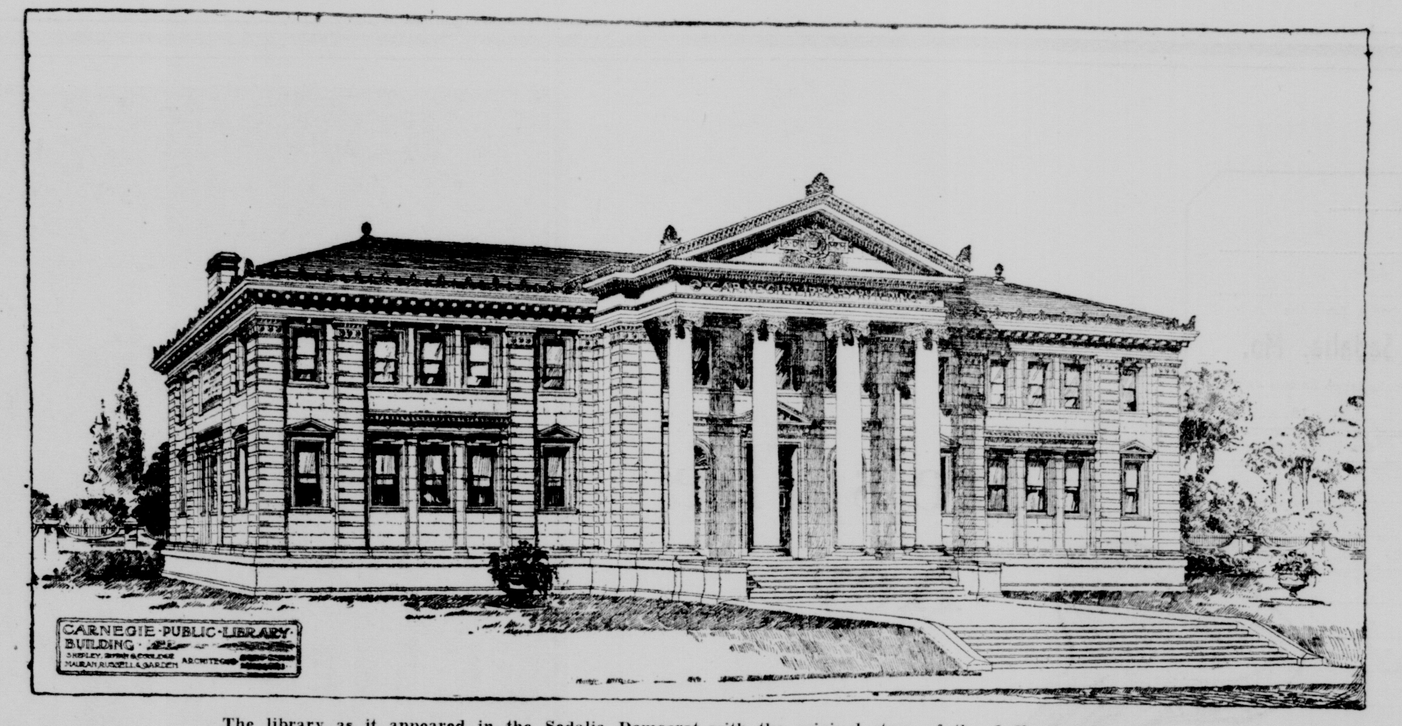

Very respectfully yours,
Jas. Bertram

D. H. Smith, Esq.,
Sedalia, Mo.

Dear Sir,

Mr. Carnegie leaves details of the site to the proper authorities of the city and library, believing that whatever they find suitable will be satisfactory to him and best for the city.

Very respectfully yours,
Jas. Bertram,
P. Secretary.

Made Building Possible

Andrew Carnegie, who made it possible to build the public library building in 1901. Mr. Carnegie was born in Scotland November 25, 1835. He came to the United States in 1848 with his father, a hand-loom weaver. The family settled in Pittsburgh, Pa., where Carnegie obtained employment first in a cotton mill and later became a telegrapher. He became acquainted with Woodruff, a sleeping-car patentee which laid the foundation for his success. He retired from business in 1901, retaining an interest valued at several hundred millions of dollars. He gave vast sums of money for education and libraries and in 1911 established the Carnegie corporation. He died August 11, 1919.

Behind the Scene In Your Library

Things that we are accustomed to we accept without a thought of all the work that lies back of it.

Into the library we go, wander around, find the books we want stop at the desk for the short precedure of fixing the cards and that is all there is to it.

But behind those books lie many hours of work in the library, each member of the staff with her own praticular duty and all taking turns at times at the desk to serve you.

Days and days are spent in deciding just what books should be selected from the many, many books, with the limited amount of money available. Each member of the staff studies the book lists and makes suggestions. The young Children's Librarian is even now trying to decide what books should be ordered for the children this fall. Then finally they are ordered—books that should reach out to all types of readers.

When the books begin to arrive there are days spent in the cataloguing. Typing the cards for the file. Every book must have three cards, the title, the author and the subject so that they might be found in whatever way they are asked for. If they are books that have a collection of articles by different authors then it is necessary to make out many cards, sometimes 30 or more.

Then each book is given a number. The book is listed and the number is stamped twice in the book, once on the front page and once on page 17.

Then the number is printed on the back in white ink and shellaced. If gold is used for the title on the back it must first be sprayed with plastic to keep the gold from running when the shellac is applied.

Then in a card index the title of the book and its exact place on the shelf is listed. All the cataloguing is done in the cataloguing room upstairs.

The books are then ready to have the little pockets glued in the back and the card with the book number put in the pocket. Then it is taken downstairs to be placed on a shelf for the public.

If you go to the library and ask for a book they do not have they will send to the state library in Jefferson City and they in turn will send to Columbia, Kansas City or wherever that type book may be located and from there the book is sent direct to the Sedalia public library and you are notified that your book has arrived. For people who need books in their own line of work as well as others this is a valuable service.

When the books in the library begin to wear too badly they are taken into the mending room where new backs are put on, torn pages are taped and all needed repairs made. Miss Nettie Lamm, who has charge of this department, estimates that 150 books are mended a month. Here, too, date slips and book pockets are replaced.

There are no end of services given by the library staff. They are called and asked for all kinds of information which they always seem to find in their vast store of books. They have even been called and asked for recipies and have looked up the recipe needed and read it to the caller over the telephone.

The public is privledged to go to the library at any time and read in the reading rooms where are found not only books but magazines of all kinds.

For references, for planning parties, for toasts for banquets for almost any need the library has just what you are looking for and if you have even the least idea of what you want a member of the library staff is always on hand to help you find it.

From the little youngster, too young to read but who likes the picture book stories to the very old who find pleasure in reading to pass away the lonely hours, the Sedalia public library is your public servant, for 50 years it has been a friend to the people—it is your own library—use it.

Rare Dishes At Library

Royal Canton China dishes which were used to serve a President of the United States and his wife may be seen in two large cabinets in the auditorium of the library.

These hand painted dishes in bold Chinese pattern were the property of the Jaynes family. When President Rutherford B. Hayes, Mrs. Hayes and their son Burchard Hayes were making a tour of the west they came to Sedalia September 24, 1879, and were breakfast guests in the Jaynes' home. The breakfast was served to the President and his family and other distinguished guests on the rare china.

The complete set of china, which even includes two huge matching vases, was presented to the library by members of the Jaynes family, and a daughter Mrs. Bransford Lewis had two large cabinets built especially for the china.

A collector of china was amazed when he saw the cabinets filled with the Royal Canton china and stated that he saw a set of similar dishes, but not nearly so fine, sold for several thousand dollars.

The library board has had many people wanting to buy the china but it is part of the library and will never be sold.

Now and then members of the library staff are faced with a delicate task, that of washing the china. And it is always with a sigh of relief that the last precious piece is washed, dried and restored to its place in the cabinet.

Library Services Brighten Days at Bothwell Hospital

By Betty Stafford

One service offered by the Sedalia Public Library which gives pleasure to many people is the free library service at Bothwell hospital. Miss Marie Fritz, in charge of the service goes to the hospital every Wednesday at 11 a. m. to check out books for interested patients.

About 60 books are kept at the hospital and new ones are constantly being added. A small cart on wheels is used to distribute the books from room to room and all rooms except isolation cases, are visited each Wednesday.

The library has had this service since 1933 and has lessened the problem of lost books by placing a depository in the front lobby of the hospital in which to place returned books. This depository is kept locked at all times.

Patients are asked to return their books themselves if they are able, or to have one of their visitors return them. There is no time limit on checked out books. Miss Fritz keeps the cards of books being used and each weeks picks up the books left in the depository and replaces them in service.

This traveling hospital library often arouses interest in the regular library service and people often want regular cards from the library after dismissal from the hospital.

New patients are continually amazed and pleased to see this bookshelf on wheels come through the door and the books offered to them free. Some will want to thumb through the books but most will take the first one suggested by the librarian.

One patient, regarded by the library as their best customer, has been at the hospital since 1947. He takes a book each week and often requests the librarian to bring him a certain book he is interested in reading.

Many nurses also profit by the library on wheels and request that the librarian keep them in mind when choosing books to bring to the patients.

The librarian's job is not only one of delivering books. Many other favors are asked of her. One day a woman was interested in obtaining a place to live after dismissal from the hospital and the librarian was asked to help her find a lodging. The woman has never taken a book but enjoys seeing Miss Fritz and talking to her. Mailing letters is a regular request also.

The most popular type of book is the light, humorous kind which will have no upsetting influence on any type of patient. Such books as "Father of the Bride" or 'The Egg and I" are books that are usually in use. Women patients always like books by Bess Streeter Aldrich.

One of the most popular novels among men is "Yankee Storekeeper." Men also seem more intrested in reading non-fiction, history, and adventure than women.

Books for children are not too numerous since most children are in the hospital for a short time, such as for a tonsillectomy, or are too sick to care about looking at books. The collection, however, does contain two large picture books.

Miss Fritz said that it is unexplainable as to why more books are checked out at some times during the year rather than at others. Summer seems to be the falling off season, with winter the most popular book time.

The largest number of books ever checked out in one day has been 25 and the smallest is one. But never a Wednesday goes by that at least one patient is not made happier by a book from the free traveling library.

Story of the Dedication From Files of Democrat

(Sedalia Missouri Democrat Wednesday evening July 31, 1901.)

SEDALIA LIBRARY

Formal Opening Took Place Last Night

LARGE CROWD PRESENT

The Addresses of the Evening—Reception for Children Being Held This Afternoon

The formal opening of the Carnegie library building took place last night. For an hour before the beginning of the program great throngs of people streamed through the corridors and rooms of the magnificent building viewing the splendid structure that belongs to Sedalia by the munificence of Mr. Andrew Carnegie.

The library board and the husbands and wives of the members stationed about the large front hall acted as a reception committee. The members of the board, Hon. C. E. Yeater, president: Mrs. W. D. Steele, vice president: Lee Montgomery, secretary: W. B. Mackey, Maurice McCabe, Otis W. Smith, C. E. Messerly, Miss Gertrude Smith and Mrs. E. B. Burrowes.

Three members were absent—Miss Gertrude Smith and Maurice McCabe, both of whom are in Colorado and Mrs. E. B. Burrows, who is recovering from a spell of sickness.

Miss Smith was represented by her mother, Mrs. D. H. Smith and Mrs. Burrowes by her daughter, Miss Edna.

Such an immense crowd of people visited the building that it was impossible to get the throng quiet enough to begin the programme arranged until 8:30 o'clock. Before this time Gregg's orchestra, which donated its services, rendered several beautiful selections.

The exercises were held in the art room, on the east end of the second floor of the building. The room was fitted out with a circular fan in each of the four corners of the room. As many chairs as possible were crowded into the room but the number was entirely insufficient to hold the crowd that desired to remain. Ed Evans and Guy Arey acted as ushers.

At 8:30 o'clock the Hon. C. E. Yeater, who acted as chairman, called the meeting to order and stated in a few brief sentences that Mr. Carnegie had asked Mr. Yeater, however on his behalf, to tender the library to the people of Sedalia. Mr. Yeater then introduced the Rev. E. W. Clippinger, who accepted the gift in behalf of the people of Sedalia. He expressed the thanks of the people of Sedalia feel toward the library board for the way in which it discharged the trust in its hand.

Preceeding, he said that the members of the board still had a great trust imposed upon them—the selection of the books in the library; that the power was with the library board to place in the hands of the people efforts of the geniuses of the past and the inspiring records of the heroes and heroines of literature.

"It is in this way" said Mr. Clippinger, "that we sit and walk and converse with the master minds of the past in art, in history and for literature."

Then he mentioned briefly how the library would raise the standard of the community, morally and socially and how future generations would be benefited by being brought in contact with the noble and lofty thoughts of the great spirits of the past.

After a selection of the orchestra, Mr. Yeater rose and stated that thoughts came to him that Mr. Carnegie had made a larger gift to Sedalia considering the assessed valuation of its property than to any other town of its size in the United States.

Mr. D. H. Smith, through whose efforts the donation from Mr. Carnegie was secured was introduced to the audience and spoke of "The Old Library."

Mr. Smith told of the early efforts to get a library in Sedalia and of the difficulties of some of the good people then interested in raising funds to overcome some of the barriers encountered in getting a home for the library.

As a diversion from the regular programme Mrs. W. D. Steele read an original poem, entitled "Carnegie' composed by Miss Rosa Pearle of this city.

Mr. Yeater then presented to the audience Mr. John Lawrence Mauran of St. Louis, the architect of the building announcing his subject as "Responsibility." Mr. Mauran mentioned briefly the responsibility of the library board and librarian in putting good literature before the people; of the responsibility of distributing so nobly and of the responsibility of the architect in planning a structure that must educate by its dignity and its grandeur upbuild the minds of the people.

At this point Mr. Yeater stated that although a formal acknowledgement of the donation of art by the Mesdames Smith and Cotton had been made he thought that an informal acknowledgement of the gift at this time would not be out of place.

The last speaker of the evening, Mr. F. N. Crunden, librarian, of St. Louis, public library was introduced. Mr. Crunden is a polished speaker and his scholarly effort last night was highly appreciated and enjoyed by every one within the hearing of his voice.

In part, he said, "The people of Sedalia are to be congratulated upon gaining such a splendid structure as the one in which we are; upon having such a trustworthy and efficient library board and upon having secured a librarian that has added to her natural talents a special training for her profession.

The public library includes in every branch of intellectual study and training and it affords literature for those eager to learn in every walk of life, to both the old and the young.

"The child will acquire, early a taste for good reading by being admitted to the library. A course of reading, supplementary to a school course, is one of the most important elements in the education of a child. A text book diet will seldom create a taste for more. A child should be made to love good reading so that, when his school education ceases, he will be in line to continue his work through life. That a child should acquire this taste is the main end of an elementary education, and the education of the child in this manner is a most important phase in library work.

"The public library costs the people of Sedalia only one-tenth as much as the public schools, while the benefts accruing from it is double that of the public schools. If a taste for good reading has been included in the child when, at the age of 12 or 13, he is compelled to quit school to earn his living, he can continue his education as he makes his way in the world.

"Where one boy or girl can go to college one thousand cannot, and in this majority who cannot go the library opens a line of higher education. In the library they find things that are not to be learned in any public school curriculum. The literature of the world is open to them. They learn the history of humanity and that which they cannot be taught too soon, their obligations to society, morally and socially.

"All great literary work set the good above the bad and teach the ultimate triumph of right over wrong—that 'The wages of sin is death.' Along this line the education value of poetry cannot be overestimated. Its value as a moral and intellectual agent of education is as a priceless gem.

"Education is in itself, the best means of progress, and two of the best methods of education are the kindergarten and the library. Give the child the kindergarten from three to six years of age, and from six years on the library and at the age of 30 he will have a most thorough education, even though the college education has been denied him

"The library, then" Mr. Crunden concluded, "continues the education of children, and will double the public school investment; it gives to teachers, ministers and scholars a place to cultivate their minds and to study their professions; it furnishes the mechanics, artists and inventors a place to study their trades and serves to broaden their minds and ideas; it helps to raise the moral standards to lessen crime in our own and succeeding generations, it helps to the ultimate end of mankind—the establishment of happy homes and education of healthy children to continue the progress of the civilization of the world."

This concluded the evening's programme and the audience was dismissed, after a benediction by the Rev. C. A. Buchanan, pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist church.

This afternoon the children are to be given a reception in the library building.

Gifts to the Library

During the years since the library was built many Sedalians have made gifts, often as memorials, to the library.

One of the most inspirational of all the gifts was given by Mrs. Virginia Rose Moore in tribute to her husband, Lt. Robert Moore, who died in the service of his country during World War II. Mrs. Moore bought bonds and established a fund that a flag may fly always in memory of her husband and the cause for which he died.

The flag staff on which the flag flies was a gift to the library from the Sedalia Missouri Pacific Booster club.

Another outstanding gift was a historical desk donated to the public library by E. J. Smith. This desk was used in the office of the provost marshal general, U. S. army, St. Louis, during the Civil War.

Funds for the purpose of purchasing books for the library have been given by both organizations and individuals as a memorial to someone who has died.

At the death of C. R. Kilbury several years ago the Carmen's Craft of the Missouri Pacific shops gave a sum of money to the library asking that books be purchased of interest to men and so several outstanding books on fishing, hunting and trades were selected by the library staff.

Among other gifts have been the Washington elm given by Sorosis and the D. A. R., evergreens given by the Sedalia Garden clubs pictures by Mrs. Charles West, slides and projector, which is the property of the Past Presidents' club of the Sedalia Garden clubs, but which are available at any time to the library. An early gift was a model library, a gift of Sorosis, which is in the children's room collection.

There have been many other gifts to the library too numerous to list, most of which were books. These books, according to Miss Mary English, librarian, are of great value to the library because they enable the purchase of special literature that could not be purchased because of the limited funds for the books in various classifications that must be purchased.

Letter From First Librarian

The following letter was received by Miss Mary English present librarian at the Sedalia public library from Miss Faith E. Smith, first librarian, who now resides in California.

413 N. Madison Avenue
Pasadena 4, California
July 20, 1951

Miss Mary English, Librarian
Sedalia Public Library
Sedalia, Missouri

Dear Miss English:

Naturally Sedalia and the Public Library and all associated with it are in my mind a great deal, as you approach the observance of the 50th anniversary of the opening of Carnegie Library building.

Miss Faith E. Smith, first librarian at the Sedalia public library, as she looked in 1901. Miss Smith has for many years resided in Pasadena, Calif.

After graduating from Albany State Library school, Miss Smith came to Sedalia choosing this town because her uncle, The Rev. J. W. Ferner, was at that time pastor of the Congregational church.

I am remembering the hot evening when we held the dedication program in the auditorium upstairs in the library. Mr. F. M. Crunden, then librarian of the St. Louis Public Library, now counted among the fifty great library leaders in the past 75 years of the growth of the American Library association, was the speaker. It was a great privilege to have had a man of his caliber set standards for us not only in his dedication speech but by his leadership through the years.

Sedalia was exceedingly fortunate in having had a group of intellectual and cultural leaders as members of the board. They were readers who had a keen appreciation of books, each with his special interest:—Mr. Charles E. Yeater with his devotion to books on Africa and to the novels of Jane Austen which he sometimes took pleasure in using to test the intellectual taste of his friends; Mr. Lee Montgomery with his wide reading interests but special allegiance to Charles Dickens; Mrs. W. D. Steele, a leader in the state as well as in the city in musical affairs; Mr. Charles Messerly, Mrs. Burrowes, Dr. O'Neill, Mr. Hunicke and others who drew to the library patrons from their special interest groups. They held strongly to the standards of professional training as well as to their generous points of view regarding the breadth of service of the Library to the community, county as well as city, black as well as white. They were leaders in forming the Missouri Library association and in securing the proper laws passed by the State Legislature which would benefit libraries throughout the state.

It has been a delight to me to go back to Sedalia every few years and see the growth of the library and to know of its service to the schools and residents of the county. I hope this occasion may bring to the city of Sedalia a new realization of what the Public Library means to the community. May it be a happy occasion for all of the staff.

Most cordially,
Faith E. Smith

Winner of Contest

Gloria Robb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Robb, 1512 East fourth, was the winner of the contest open to children on "What the Library Means to Me."

The letter she wrote follows:

"To me the library is helpful all through the year. During vacation it is a place to get the best of books for recreational and educational reading, and during the school year it helps for reference and enjoyment, too.

"I certainly enjoy Sedalia's library."

Assistants At Library In 50 Years

Library assistants through the years have come and gone, some into other lines of work, some to other cities but most have left the library when they married.

One who served longest was Miss Clara Bowers, 815 West Fifth, who retired in January 1950 because of ill health. Miss Bowers is the daughter of the late Rev. J. M. Bowers who started the Congregational church in Sedalia in 1866, as well as the Congregational churches in Green Ridge and Windsor. The Congregational church, was then located at Sixth and Ohio. He also helped to get the bell that now hangs in the Congregational-Presbyterian church.

After completing her education Miss Bowers taught school, starting in the Southeast school which is now Whittier and later she taught in Jefferson school. She left Sedalia for a few years and upon her return decided on the library work instead of the teaching profession.

Attendants through the years have been Sarah McGowan, Marguerite McDaniels, Blanch Imhoff, Ada L. Griffith, Marguerite Curran, Grace Campbell, Valeria Easton, Sarah Knight McLaughlin, Josephine Franklin, apprentice, Beulah Mumm, Lillian Jaekel, Margaret Hodges, apprentice; Marguerite O'Connell, apprentice, Frances Carter, apprentice, Vera Voight, apprentice, Minnie Murphy, aprentice; France Yeater, apprentice, Ann Curran, apprentice; Florence Davidson, apprentice; Amelia Combs, apprentice; Naomi Walch, apprentice; Jane Morey, Naomi McCann, Josephine Ellis, Jessie Browneller, Mary Noel White, Victoria Hoffman, Edna Snell and Jaunita Berry, part time, Katherine Menefee, Mary English, Frances Cregan, Gertrude Fults, Clara Bowers, Georgia Hoff, Lois Botts, Mary Lloyd Freund, A. Mildred Rowland, page, LaVerne Truitt, page, Thelma Baker, Mary Dix Van Doran and Jane Horner.

This picture of two little girls looking through stereoscopes might have been taken 50 years ago but it wasn't. It was snapped by photographer Bill Padgett last week while taking pictures at the library. The two little girls with their long braids look very much like little girls did when the library first opened and the stereoscope that then fascinated little girls and boys has come back in vogue and is just as popular with today's children.

Served as Board Presidents

Library board presidents who have served during the past 50 years are as follows:

Things Are Never Dull in The Children's Room

There is never a dull moment in the children's library and the smiling young woman at the desk there is adored by all the youngsters.

She is Miss Yvonne Leiter, children's librarian, who every day is amused and sometimes bewildered by the things the children say.

One little girl aroused her curiosity each time she came in by greeting her enthusiastically with "Hello, Miss Obbie" and calling her Miss Obbie the entire time she was there.

"What is she saying," thought the children's librarian. "Miss Obbie doesn't sound a thing like Miss Leiter, what can she be calling me."

Finally one day she could stand it no longer so she asked the child's mother who told her that the little girl was trying to say "Miss Library." To her that was just who she was.

There are times when the little ones burst into tears for one reason or another. One day recently there was a sudden shower of tears for no apparent reason. When Miss Leiter attempted to find out what the trouble was she found it was simply that there were four little chairs around her desk and all of them were taken. The little girl had no chair so she just cried. Miss Leiter walked over a short distance from the desk, picked up another little chair and placed it in the semi-circle with the others. The little girl stopped crying and sat down.

Many times the children just come in to talk but they like the idea of having their own librarian. The real big rush time in the children's room is shortly after 4 o'clock in the afternoon during the school year.

The youngsters love the story hour held on Saturday mornings and listen intently as Miss Leiter tells stories. They like to look at the groups of pictures through the stereoscopes.

She entertains the small children who come with their mothers to the library. As mother hunts for her books Miss Leiter reads or tells stories, but, she says firmly, this is not a baby sitting project. It is merely another service for library patrons so they may find their books without having to constantly be chasing their little tots around the library.

The sixth and seventh grades in the schools are brought to the library where they are taught to use the card file and to find the books for themselves.

There are many, many types of books and children will wander around or will stop and ask Miss Leiter for books about the Mound Builders , the Indians, old coins and various others.

Children are encouraged to visit the library and take out books. During the school year there is a service offered for schools that are a long way from the library. Books are taken each week to those schools and are checked in and out by a teacher or someone responsible at the school.

Yes, the library is a real place of interest to the youngsters, they like the children's room where they make themselves at home and so it has been down through the 50 years since the library was built.

Appreciation Of Sedalia Library

A letter was received the past week by the Sedalia Democrat-Capital from Mrs. Fred Kuhlman, 222 East Fourth, and expresses the sentiment of many Sedalians who leave here and then return as well as newcomers and visitors to Sedalia.

Sedalians began to appreciate their library more during World War II when so many men from every part of the country were stationed at SAAF and were so complimentary to the Sedalia Public library and its service. People here then began to realize that the library here was far superior to the libraries in the majority of towns and cities.

Mrs. Kuhlman's letter follows:

The Sedalia Public Library will celebrate its fiftieth birthday next week, and I want to take this occasion to express what the library here in Sedalia has meant to me.

For many years I was a native Sedalian and took our library for granted. Then I moved away for about ten years. Upon my return I unconsciously began comparing this library to theirs, and I noted the following distinct advantages:

1. A more beautiful building and grounds.
2. Books in current circulation not so easily obtainable elsewhere.
3. Much more courteous attention from the library personnel

We often hear of recognition being given for services rendered over and above the line of duty. Maybe the table in front of the librarian's desk is rendering just such a service. Almost any time of year, there is a display on this table that has taken time, thought and effort to set. It may be an unusual flower arrangement, a seasonable display, or an attractive exhibit of current interest. This being unexpected and out of the ordinary is often remembered long after the books are received, read and returned.

To repeat, I feel we have eye appeal in our library-beautiful building and well kept grounds; mind appeal in the thousands and thousands of carefully catalogued books that are easily accessible; and heart appeal in the pleasing manner the public—you-and-I—are served and assisted in every way possible when we come to our home of knowledge and culture available to all.

Sincerely,
Irene D. Kuhlman

SEDALIA AND THE TELEPHONE COMPANY

Have you noticed how Sedalia is growing?

Without sacrificing its friendly, pleasant way of life, Sedalia's spirit of "get-up-and-go" has made its industry grow. Large firms like the Missouri-Pacific Railroad, Pittsburgh-Corning Glass, and Town and Country Shoe Company are building, modernizing and improving. And so is the telephone company. More than $1,000,000 has been spent to expand and improve service since 1945.

Hospitals, churches, schools and civic buildings have a new look. Bright, clean residential sections are springing up.

Behind the scenes, the telephone company is an active partner in the city's growth.

Here's what the telephone company is contributing to Sedalia's welfare:

A yearly payroll of nearly $400,000, spent with Sedalia's merchants and businessmen.

140 good telephone jobs for Sedalia's people.

Local tax payments of $50,000.

Regular dividend payments to nearly 200 people in the Sedalia area who own stock in the telephone company.

Employer, taxpayer and dividend payer, and provider of an essential service — the telephone company is one of growing Sedalia's greatest assets.

The telephone payroll now totals almost $400,000 a year, 4½ times as large as in 1940. Telephone taxes ($50,000) contribute 11 times as much support for local government and schools as in 1940.

Since 1945, the telephone company has spent over a million dollars to expand and improve facilities and equipment so that more people can enjoy better service than ever.

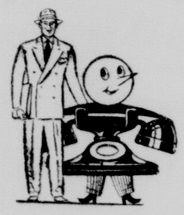

Growing, too, is the number of your friends and neighbors in Sedalia who have invested savings in the telephone business. Nearly 200 people in this area share in the ownership of the telephone company.

Today, 70% of Sedalia's families have telephone service; at the end of 1940, only 38% had service. Nearly 42,000 local calls are made daily, over 37% more than in 1940.

U. S. Taxpayers to Subsidize Almost Two-thirds of Greek Food Ration at Cheaper Prices Than Americans Pay for It

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON.—No announcement has been made to the American people, but, while their own food prices skyrocket, they will foot the bill to keep Greek food prices down. For the United States has agreed to subsidize over half of the Greek diet at cut-rate prices.

What happened in Greece is that a timid government permitted inflation to push prices out of reach of the average Greek. The Greek government refused to pass high taxes or inflation controls, so, to combat a sure breeder of Communism, the U.S.A. has promised to underwrite a three-year rationing program.

Thus we will subsidize approximately 65 per cent of the Greek ration, or 1,500 calories out of a total daily ration of 2,400 calories. But what's more, the United States will not only guarantee the food, but will supply it at below-market prices. In other words, the American taxpayers will guarantee all Greeks two out of three meals a day—at cheaper prices than the Americans are paying for their own food.

This is on top of $2,000,000,000 in aid that has already been poured into Greece since the end of the war.

Note—Real profiteers are the Greek shipowners, who have grown fabulously wealthy overnight shipping ECA cargo. They bought their ships at bargain-basement prices from the United States, and are now charging scandalously high rates for use of these ships. In return, they are paying no taxes to the United States and almost none in Greece.

Price Stalemate

While Congress has been haggling over price controls, the office of price stabilization has come to a virtual standstill. This is revealed in a confidential memo from price headquarters to all branch chiefs and section heads.

Marked "for internal use only," the memo shows how the price agency has bogged down and become demoralized while waiting for Congress to make up its mind about controls.

"Naturally we regret the present situation since it has brought to a halt the development of five months of carefully considered and hard work," the memo declares. "However, neither recrimination nor looking for an easy way out will resolve our problems, and we ask that the agency continue to stand together as a team until such time as its immediate course can be more clearly charted."

The memo instructs price chiefs throughout the country that price boss Mike Di Salle "desires to maintain the status quo . . . in connection with our manufacturer regulations as well as with most other price actions."

"As just one example," the confidential memo points out, "Mr. Di Salle felt that if we issued only price-increase actions during this period, Congress could take the position that we were showing pique and petulance and trying to place it in the worst light . . . accordingly, our job is to make the best of a bad situation until such time as it is resolved by Congress."

Headaches and Humor

The most unpopular agency in the government, as everybody knows, is the bureau of internal revenue, which collects our taxes. Actually however, the BIR is made up of human beings who, despite their unpleasant job, manage to get a few chuckles out of their relations with John Q. Public.

For instance, a disgruntled taxpayer recently wrote the bureau: "— — and from him that hath not . . . shall be taken away even that which he hath."

"That's from the Bible, you lugs, and I think it's only part you believe in."

Another taxpayer attached this note to his income return: "Only two things in life are certain—death and taxes. What I resent is that they don't come in that order."

The BIR has heard about every alibi in the book for the filing of delinquent returns, but the most unusual came from a man who confessed: "I would have paid this sooner only I was laid up with a fractured uncle." Another taxpayer, explaining why he listed his mother-in-law as dependent, added: "She eats like a horse."

Bureau officials get a lot of poetry in the mail, some of it anonymous and unprintable. A frustrated citizen attached the following to his return:

A man stood at the pearly gate,
His face was worn and old;
He merely asked of the man of fate
Admission to the fold.

"What have you done?"
St. Peter asked,
"To seek admission here?"
"Why, I tried," said the man,
"To figure
"My tax till the end of the year."

The gates swung open sharply,
As St. Peter touched the bell;
"Come in," he said, "and take a harp,
"You've had enough of hell."

The bureau received an anonymous letter from a taxpayer who felt that his obligation to the government was greater than his tax. Enclosed was a substantial check, with an attached note: "Inasmuch as I wish to remain anonymous, you will please pardon me for not signing this check."

Another taxpayer being interviewed by a deputy collector was trying to get away with a whopping list of dependency claims. The deputy, knowing that the man was lying, turned to another collector and jokingly inquired:

"John, what time does that bus load of people who have gypped the government leave today for the federal penitentiary?"

"Man, I just remembered," interrupted the startled taxpayer. "Scratch all those names off. I don't support nobody but myself."

Meat Price Protector

Price boss Mike Di Salle probably doesn't know it, but one of his top consultants on price ceilings was once fined $1,500 for violating price ceilings.

He is Arthur B. Maurer, a Kansas City meatpacker, consultant to the office of price stabilization. His job is to advise how high price ceilings should be on food.

Yet Maurer's own packing plant was fined $1,500 during World War II for violating price ceilings. He pleaded nolo contendere to 20 counts of overcharging. In other words, he placed himself at the mercy of the court and, on October 18, 1943, was found guilty of selling at wholesale "beef at a price in excess of the maximum price fixed by government regulation."

Now he is supposed to help protect the public from the high price of meat.

Your New

Social Security

Question: How will the self-employed person pay his social security?

Answer: His contribution toward old-age and survivors insurance protection for himself and his family will be payable at the time he files his income tax return. The self-employed person will make his first contribution in 1952 when he files his 1951 return. At that time, he will fill out a special schedule which he will find on his income tax form. In this way he will report his self-employment income for 1951. The schedule will be detached from his income tax report form by the Collector of Internal Revenue who will forward it to the Social Security Administration. Self-employment income will then be credited to his social security account.

Question: How will prior "covered" employment affect the self-employed?

Answer: Any wages a self-employed person previously earned in a job covered by social security will still be listed on his social security account. These earlier earnings will help to establish his insured status and will be considered in determining his average earnings for retirement or survivors insurance payments. Self-employment income will be credited to his social security account in the same manner.

"Willie and Joe," those fabulous cartoon characters of World War II, are on the screen in Bill Mauldin's "Up Front," starting today at the Fox theatre. David Wayne and Tom Ewell are co-starred in the picture which recaptures the high-hearted humor of the fighting men Mauldin depicted in his famous war-time cartoon sketches.

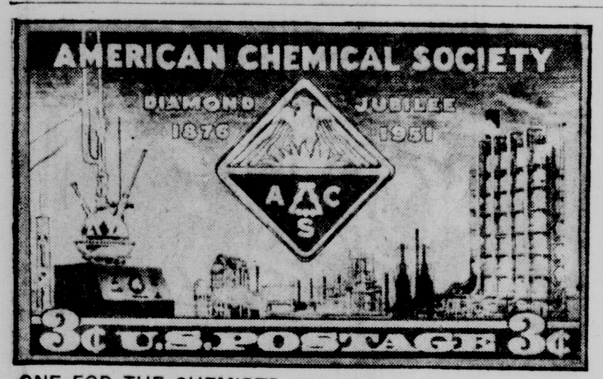

AS YOUNG AS YOU FEEL

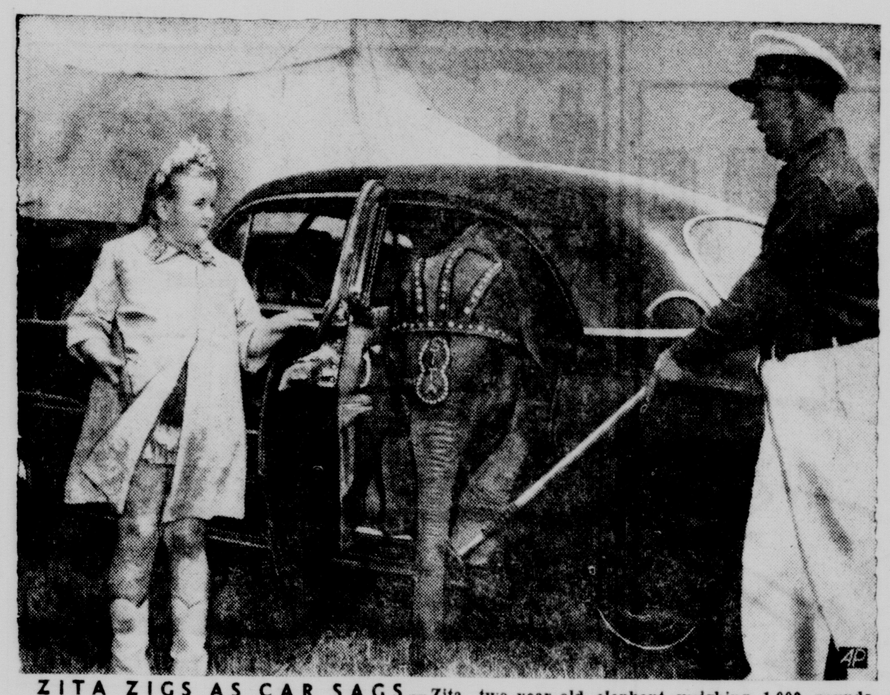

David Wayne and Jean Peters give Thelma Ritter the good news that the wedding day is set in the new family comedy "As Young as You Feel," playing now through Tuesday at the Liberty. Monty Wooley is the fourth star in this mirthful story of a 65-year-old who refuses to retire, and the stellar cast also includes Constance Bennett, Marilyn Monroe, Allyn Joslyn and Albert Dekker. The co-feature is "Operation Disaster" starring John Mills and Nigel Patrick.

Lon McCallister and his comrades advance to the front in this scene from "A Yank in Korea." Co-hit "Cargo to Capetown" starring Academy winner Broderick Crawford—This program plays today thru Tuesday at the Uptown Theatre.

ONE FOR THE CHEMISTS—This three-cent stamp will commemorate the 75th anniversary of the American Chemical Society. The stamp will be placed on first day sale at New York City on Sept. 4, 1951.

ZITA ZIGS AS CAR SAGS—Zita, two-year-old elephant weighing 1,000 pounds, exits from auto at Providence, R. I., as her youthful trainer, Marsha Hunt, holds the door.

Musical Comedy Treat of Treats!

Doris Day and Gordon MacRae are backed by a large vocal group in this scene from the Happy-Go-Lucky Technicolor Hit "Tea For Two" which shows tonight and Monday on the giant screen at the 50 Hi-Way Drive-In Theatre.

FROM CAROLINA—Pretty Bobbie Phillips, of Aberdeen, N. C., smiles as she drapes herself in large leaves of tobacco grown at Henry and Halbert Blue farm, Aberdeen.

Nationalization Opposed In Burm

RANGOON — (AP) — The "Bama Khit," a leading Burmese language newspaper, has editorially opposed the socialist government's nationalization plans, asserting nationalization is alien to the Burmese.

The paper considered Burma's social, religious and economical environment are factors against nationalization which, it says, to be effective presupposes dictatorial methods in its application.

The paper warned that nationalization, if forced upon the country, will bring only misery and dissatisfaction to the people.

The defense of Austria is vested in the four occupying powers of Britain, France, the U.S.S.R. and the United States.

THE GILA MURDER

• BY JULIUS LONG •

COPYRIGHT 1951 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Laura Colton, wealthiest woman in Coltonville, dies of a heart attack after being bitten by a Gila Monster which Paul Baker, county prosecutor, says was put in the glove compartment of her car for the purpose of murdering her. But the Gila's habitat is the Southwest, not the Middlewest, and the question is, from where did it come? Sam, the widower, lived in Arizona before his marriage to Laura. There are also a son, Lawrence, and a daughter Pat.

VI

PAUL BAKER pictured himself going around asking small boys and old men who had been looking for food for Gila Monsters. "Your father testified that the Gila Monster that bit your mother had not been fed recently."

"Quite so," said Lawrence Colton, "but the creature might have been imported to this country some time ago—in which case whoever kept it and its mate would have collected the kind of food it required."

"Any other suggestion?"

"Oh, yes. The question of motivation for murder. Who profits from my mother's demise? Had you considered this question you should certainly not have attempted to embarrass my poor father. He's virtually cut out of the will. Mother left him a trust fund from which he is to receive a paltry $2000 a year."

"He doesn't have to abide by that," Baker pointed out. "He can elect to take one-third of the estate under the law of descent and distribution."

The youth lifted his brows as if in horror of such an idea.

"Really, your entire viewpoint of this case is predicated upon an absolute ignorance of my family and my father in particular. Why do you suppose he gave up a promising career as a mining engineer to return to Coltonville and subsist on my mother's charity? Because he was lazy? Why, he has one of the keenest minds I've ever encountered. He feeds his mind with books, with thought.

"He came here simply because he was always deeply in love with my mother. You may wonder at that, as I have many times, but the simple truth is that he adored her and would do anything she desired for him, even forsaking his career. Now, though mother is dead, my father, Sam Colton, wouldn't think of disobeying her last will and testament by taking more from her estate than she wished him to have."

"Where does the bulk go?" Baker asked.

"Patricia and I inherit the balance outright. I might point out that neither Patricia nor myself ever had any luck trying to get father to accept money from our allowances. He would state flatly that if mother had wished him to have any more money she would have given it to him."

"Well," Baker conceded, "that does rule out motivation for your father in the commission of the crime."

"Of course it does. And it furnishes adequate motivation for Patricia and me."

* * *

BAKER hesitated, then said: "What about Johnnie McAdams? Isn't he going to marry your sister and take over all the Colton property management?"

Lawrence Colton burst into shrill laughter.

"I suppose that's what everyone in town is thinking! The unvarnished truth is that Patricia has tolerated Johnnie only because mother marked him as the man for her. Patricia will give him short shrift, now that mother's gone, and he knows it."

Baker felt a little disappointment as motivation for McAdams vanished. He asked the youth irritably:

"Well, whom do you suspect?"

Lawrence Colton lifted his delicate brows. "Me? Oh, I abhor detective stories! They are concocted for people who haven't the brains to puzzle out things worthwhile. I wouldn't try to solve the crime of my mother's murder for anything in the world!"

With that he walked off, and Baker was glad, for he was afraid he would have hit the youth, had he stayed. The incident of his face-slapping and the encounter with Lawrence Colton caused him to abandon his thought of driving away in his car. He walked slowly back to his office. Sam Colton was just descending the stairway as he turned into it.

"Oh, there you are! Your secretary said you were gone for the day."

"I changed my mind," said Baker.

"Well, I'm glad of a chance to see you. I just heard about Pat's behavior from Johnnie McAdams. Of course you realize that the child was over-wrought."

"Of course. Would you like to come back upstairs to my office? I'd like to hear more about Gila Monsters."

Sam laughed. "I'd be delighted to talk to you—but I'm afraid I've exhausted the subject."

THEY ascended the stairs, and Baker escorted Colton into his private office. The two faced each other across Baker's desk. Baker waited on the older man to begin; he had always liked and pitied the consort of Coltonville's uncrowned empress.

It was unpleasant to think that Laura's will had cut Sam off with a $2000 annual allowance, but then Sam would probably find this munificent contrasted with his previous allowance. For years he had been virtually penniless, prevented from working at his profession. There were various estimates of the weekly allowance permitted Sam by his wife; these averaged about $2 per week.

Baker had heard many a story of poor Sam being sent downtown to purchase some small item and having to walk out empty-handed because Laura had forgotten to give him the sales tax money. She would take him into a clothing store and buy his clothes. Sometimes Sam wore hand-me-downs.

Corny Story

NEW YORK—(AP)—It takes only 52 kernels of seed corn per capita in the U.S. to grow the more than 2,340,00,000 pounds of corn needed each year to meet the country's nearly insatiable appetite for canned and frozen varieties of the vegetable.

This, the American Can Co. noted, is almost four times the crop of sweet corn grown for canning 50 years ago when it started in business.

The public law of the United States revolves largely around (1) the Federal System; (2) the written Constitution; and (3) the judicial construction of written Constitutions.

District Meet Of PTA Held On July 25

Representatives From Six Counties at The Riley Home

Representatives from the six counties in the Sedalia district of P.T.A., Saline, Cooper, Moniteau, Morgan, Benton, and Pettis met in the home of the district president, Mrs. Kurman Riley, route 2, Sedalia, on July 25.

The group discussed various problems of parent-teacher units and what affect re-organization of school districts is having on the P.T.A. Plans were made for the district conference to be held in Boonville on July 27.

"Golden Opportunities" was the theme selected for the meeting and Everett Keith of Columbia would be first choice as a speaker to represent the Missouri Congress of P.T.A. Mr. Keith is now serving as the fourth vice-president of the organization and is legislative chairman.

Mrs. Riley announced that the state convention will be held on Oct 9, 10 and 11 in St. Joseph. Hotel Robideau will be convention headquarters and the theme will be "Children's Needs Won't Wait." Mrs. Riley announced that the P. T. A. will have an exhibit at the state fair this year, in the Educational building.

Those present at the meeting were: Mrs. Charles O'Meal, Marshall, president of the Saline county council; Mrs. Oscar Gochenour, Blackwater, president; Mrs. Byron Beckner, Pilot Grove, vice-president of the Cooper county council; Mrs. Clarence Sappington, president; Mrs. John Singer, vice-president, both of Califronia; officers of the Moniteau county council; officers from the Morgan county council; president, Mrs. Earl Daniels; vice-president, Mrs. Bert Lehman, both of Versailles; Mrs. Andy Berry, Warsaw, representing Benton county council as vice-president; Pettis county council representatives, president, Mrs. Terry Files, La Monte; vice-president, Mrs. Al Schreiner of Sedalia; Sedalia city council representatives, president, Mrs. Gib Owens, vice-president, Mrs. Charles Poynter.

Mrs. M. E. Green of Sedalia and a past state officer of the organization was a special guest.

Chandler Wins Gambling Case

VERSAILLES, Ky., July 28—(AP)—After 18 years away from the attorney A. B. (Happy) Chandler ewnt into court here and won acquittal for seven Negro men accused of crap-shooting.

Chandler's absence from his law office was brought on by a turn in his career that carried him to governor of Kentucky, United States Senator and Commissioner of baseball.

When baseball men refused recently to renew his contract, Chandler returned to his home here and dusted off his law books.

"It was a real thrill, he said.

"The whole police force had raided the home of one of them without a search warrant.

"The city attorney prosecuted the case but there wasnt' much argument before I moved for acquittal and got it."

THE GHOST WALKS IN "BOOMTOWN, U. S. A."—America's newest "boom town" is Puerto Rico, Uncle Sam's "little nephew" in the Caribbean. Since 1947, Puerto Rico had added more than 140 new industries, creating 20,000 new jobs and factories are being added at the rate of ten a month. Photo shows construction workers crowding paymaster's window—a sight unprecedented in the old days of Puerto Rico's one-industry (sugar) economy.
